1. Overview

Misha ibn Attari (740-815) also known as Māshā’allāh (according to later translators, Messahala, Messahalla, Messahalah, Messala, Macellama, Macelarma) was a famous Persian astrologer and astronomer of Jewish origin, living in Basra, from whom we have numerous surviving works. In time, his fame caused him to be attributed with magical works, just as Solomon, Apollonius, Virgil and other esteemed men of culture.

In his Antipalus Malleficiorum (1508), Trithemius mentions it:

”[17] Liber quoque annulorum, sepetm planetarum, qui adscribitur Messalae, et incipit: Cum operari volueris. [Omnia sunt vana, quae continet, superstitiosa et Christiano penitus abiicienda.]”

”A book also about rings of the seven planets, ascribed to Messala, that begins thus: When you want to operate. (All that are contained therein are vane and superstitious and which the Christian thoroughly rejects.)”

This short tract is contained in a few codices, at least partially, and only two partial texts have been published, to my knowledge:

- Cambridge University Library Dd. xi. 45, fols. 134v-135r,

-Bodleian Library Ms. Rawlinson D. 252, fols.79v-80r

The rest of the manuscripts I have consulted and will edit and publish here (in order) would be:

-Kassel University Library 4° Ms. chem. 66, fols.200r-202r.

-Darmstadt University Library Ms.1410, fols. 14v-19r, the most complete version to my knowledge.

-Wellcome 110. I have published the seals contained in fol.68r HERE, but the text is far beyond my palaeographical expertise.

And a few manuscripts I am yet to consult but know (many, thanks to Joseph Peterson) they contain this work or at least the seals:

-British Library Sloane Ms.3824

-British Library Sloane Ms. 3850
Possible leads:

-Florence, Biblioteca Nazionale Centrale, II.III.214 (thank you Dan Schneider)
-‘Incipit liber de ieiuniis et sacrificiis et suffumigationibus septem planetarum. Capitulum de Saturno. Capitulum de Saturno primum. Septem stelle ad omnia valentes habent sacrificia…’ (23v-24v)
-Hermes, De imaginibus sive annulis septem planetarum (26r-26v, excerpt);
-Hermes, De imaginibus sive annulis septem planetarum (42v-43v);

-København (Copenhagen), Kongelige Bibliotek Gl. Kgl. S. 1658
-f. 235v Imagines et karactares planetarum
-ff. 242v-246v De sigillis et annulis
-ff. 236v-240v De septem figuris planetarum cum earum orationibus nec non subsunigationes (subfumigationes?)
-f. 236r Sigilla planetarum

Other manuscripts might contain the work but are either inaccessible to me thus far, or completely unknown. As I cannot properly ascertain whether a work on planetary magical rings is indeed connected to our treatise by title or by incipit alone, I cannot list it here. But any help from more knowledgeable colleagues is welcomed.
Dependent on this treatise, the Experiment of Oberion, contained in even more codices, features only two of the spirits listed, the Angel of the Sun, Storax, and the Angel of the Moon, Carmelyon, but that merits another study altogether. In some cases, the experiment comes with a plethora of seals and variants of these angels, suggesting that the compilers had more than a few manuscript sources.

I will update this page once I will manage to edit these texts.

2. Mentions:

Lidaka correctly assumes that the text transcribed by Bokenam is not an original work but rather a compilation of three or four sources, the first section, on the ring of the planets, being of Arabic origin. He presumes that the author, Messayaac, would be a corruption of the word Messiah, which leads me to think that he was only guessing at its origin and was unaware of the origin of the work in the astro-magical treatises ascribed to Messalah.

The fragment is quite detailed but censored: the author scrupulously records the details of the workings attributed to the rings, but knowingly refrains from including the names and characters of the spirits or the circle employed in their rings’ consecration. He does not do so for the astral characters in the following treatises, but I suppose his motives are of a religious nature, considering that the few mentioned spirits in [11], Storax, Abamecta and Paymon, would be demons, which would be in line with the practice of blood sacrifices in the Christian frome-of-mind, thus deeming this work one of demonic magic.

It`s notable that the spirits cited are in the same form and order cited in Wellcome 110.

[1] Messayaac reported an amazing revelation of experiment and begins with one touching the Most High, and it is an amazing revelation, and certainly to be admired, in which are the secrets of the Most High. Moreover, the Jews worked their magic with this, the Chaldeans, the Egyptians, and the prudent Babylonians. When, therefore, you wish to practice magic, make a ring of the Sun (and make it of gold) on which are written the character (magical sign) and name of the angel of the Sun. And this ring should be worn in all the sacrifices on the little finger of the left hand. Also, with a keen and studious mind, keep some paper in a clean place, and roll it in red silk.

[2] And these are the works of the ring of the Sun. When, in keeping with the ring of the Sun, on Sunday you fast until dark, at night sacrifice some undomesticated bird near the shore of running water, and with the blood of this same bird write the character and name of the angel of the Sun on virgin paper and carry this with you. And when you wish to go from one land to another, write in the dirt the character of the Sun and the name of its angel, and immediately will come a black horse which will carry you wherever you wish. Hold the paper in the right hand and the ring in the left hand.

[3] As before, have the character and name of its angel written on the ring, and fast on the day of the Moon (Monday), on which is made the ring of the Moon, as you did on the ring of the Sun. If you wish to work with it right away, sacrifice a river eel, with whose blood write the character of the Moon and the name of its angel on your skin and roll it in the eel skin and keep it. When you wish a river to appear or a tree with fruit, write on the ground the name of the angel and the name of the fruit, and then call the angel with the paper open, and it will appear. If you wish it not to appear, close the paper.

[4] On the ring of Mars. Sacrifice a bird of prey to the fire in the house, and write with its blood on its skin the name of the angel and the character. And when you wish for armed soldiers to appear, or castles or mock swordplay, or that you conquer in battle, write the character and name of the angel on the ground and open the paper and it will appear and do as you wish. And when the paper is closed it will stop and go away.

[5] Do all as with the others; let there be a sacrifice of a wolf or a cat in a deserted place, write the character and name of the angel on the forehead - you will prevail in all contests. Keep the paper in hand.

[6] Sacrifice a cock, write the character and name of the angel on the skin, of course, in which you should fold a penny. And no matter how often you give it away, it will return to you.

<td>Now it remains to teach general mandates. The ring of the Sun should be worn in all sacrifices, and the ring of Phoebus, on which the name of its angel; Phoebus is kept in mind as well as in work. And let there be a sacrifice in a circle traced on the ground, with the character written first, and in the middle the master speaks: 'Hear! Take the sacrifice in your praise', throwing the meat outside the circle. In all these procedures, however, invoke the name of the angel and wear the ring. The papers should indeed be kept clean, nor should they be opened in the dark of night unless required by the needs of the operation.</td>

Hoc signum mirabile est experimentum magistri Messayaac de secretis spirituum planetis, secundum mencionem, & sumitur sic. Omitto nomina angelorum cum carecteribus suis (que incipiunt sic: Storax, Abamecta, Paymon, cum ceteris) propter certam causam hie scribenda.

This wondrous revelation is the experimentum of master Messayaac, concerning the secrets of the spirits of the planets as mentioned, and proceeds in this way. For a particular reason, I omit the names of the angels with their characters (which begin thus: Storax, Abamecta, Paymon, with others).

4. Errata:

I’ve taken the liberty to note a few mistakes in the text, both in the original and in mister Lidaka’s translation, which are understandable since he had no similar text to confront, whereas I had at least two other versions.

[3] “in pelle tue” that is, in your skin, is obviously an error, since the paragraph mentions opening and closing the parchment. Other versions as for “pelle catuli” that is, a young dog’s skin.

[6] “in pelle, intelligi” is a copyist’s error, other versions read “in pelle vitulli” that is, in calfskin, regularly called vellum, a premium material of writing.

[7] “Columba alba vivente”, a live white dove, might seem pleonastic. All animals sacrificed are live animals of course.
Dead animals could not be sacrificed. The expression is a copyist’s error, as other versions read “Columba alba in loco virenti” that is, a white dove, in a green place, full of lush vegetation, as we would expect of a place connected to Venus.

[9] The exclamation “Oya” is virtually nonexistent. Other versions read “O, Tu, Angele N.” that is, O thou Angel N., whose initials, O.T.A. might originate this confusion.

[10] While “electrum” might mean “amber”, its primary meaning is of the alloy called electrum, made of varying quantities of silver and gold, very common in native state.

5. Synthetic chart

The book is structured on the classical planetary affinities. Each ring is made out a specific metal (the modern reader will be surprised to find that not all texts agree with the contemporary attribution of metals found in all post-agrippan magical literature), in the day and hour of the planet, and a certain animal is to be sacrificed in a place of planetary affinity, the character and name of the spirit employed being written with the blood of the specific victim on a certain kind of parchment and enveloped carefully until use.

The Rawlinson 253 Version
1. Source

A short version of our treatise is also contained in Bodleian Library Ms. Rawlinson D. 253, pp.177-182, edited and

I`d like to acknowledge Stephen Skinner`s support in this matter, whom I must thank for allowing me to transcribe the relevant portion here, and as well acknowledge the help of Joseph Peterson in offering pertinent comments on the manuscript and a valuable preview and Daniel Clark for offering a microfilm version.

Rawlinson D.253`s date of redaction is not known, but the most likely date seems to be 1647 (op.cit., p.23). The following version is unedited by myself in way and keeps the printed version as faithfully as possible, with the exception of the planetary siglae which have been spelled in square brackets.

I have taken the liberty of adding pertinent notes wherever the text presented variations from the older versions or where the phrasing is unclear.

2. Text

[I. Magical Rings]
• Rings of the 7 Planets not as formerly concern'd with Visions, but for other purposes

• This Ring of the [Sun] is of pure gold to increase all goodnesse & honour, & to have a wonderfull horse to beare [you] whether you wilt in a moment.

• Fast [on] the Sunday night\(^1\), then with the bloud of any wild fowle whatsoever, if it of a white collour\(^2\), & by the brinkeside of a river write this character of the [Sun] & the Name of the Angell Acarax, Antatax in virgin parchment in the bloud of the sayd fowle & beare it with thee [178] when you wilt work the experiment for thy selfe or any other.

• [Margin note:] Some say that any white foule may serve but I suppose it is meant any wild foule [fowl], etc.

• Then make the character heare set downe, in the Earth, & the N[ame] of the Angel Carax, or, Tantax, & beare the writ[ing] in thy right hand, & the ring on thy lit[t]le finger on thy left hand. These things forget not, & call the Angell in the N[ame] of the Father, Son & Holy Ghost\(^3\), having first made prayer unto god & there will appeare to thee a black horse to beare thee whither you wilt.

• Or aske any other thing lawfull to know or have, & through god's helpe it wil[1] be don[e], calling the N[ame] of [the] Angell.

• This following circle serves for all these 7 Rings of the Planets:
Iste circulus servit, pro omnibus annulis predictis et debes intrare morie tali parte[m], et recedere in occidental parte[m], et characters et Nomina Angeli debent scibi infra circulum et labebis annulis prius factes et parastos antequam accedas. Ad opus sed induisis vestibus novis et mundum eius et dicas commu[t]ationem communiente aud opus tuum et perficies.

Fig.23: The Circle used for the consecration of all Planetary rings.

The circle ought to serve for making of all rings for the aforesaid matters. You must enter by the East and move back towards the West. You must inscribe the characters and Names of the Angel on the rings which have been made earlier and prepared, before entering the circle. You must have new very clean unworn clothes for this work, and you will make the charge together before your work, so that you might complete it.

[179] ► The Ring of the Moon which is the Pl[anet] bearing rule on Monday, & begins her rule the first houre of the day, viz. at sun rising, viz. lunae hora prima in ortu solis funde nulum Lunae de puro Argento cum charactere Lunae, viz. in the day & houre of the Moon beginning at the rising [of the sun] make this ring of the Moon in pure silver, or quicksilver made hard, with the character, then fast the Monday till night, then in the night with the bloud of an eele where 3 ways meet or come together, write this character & the Name of the Angell Camelion or as on[e] write[s] it Camillion, in a welp's skin or a young cat' skin, then wrap it up in the skin of an eele, & keepe it.

- & when you wilt worke, to make water on into a house & ships fighting to appeare, it cause[s] trees [to] beare fruit, in season & out of season, then write the Name of the Angel & his character in the Earth, then taken the writ & hold it in thy right hand & call the Angell Camillion & name what you wilt appeare to thee, & it will appeare to thee. Aske what you wilt & he shall tell thee wonderfull things.

- & when you wilt have it vanish as it was, hold thy writ on thy head & the writing or letters & he will passe away & be as it was at the first.

- But always write the Name of the Angell & then his character & so in all other experiments.

[180] • The Ring of Mars is to make kings & armed men in castles to appeare doing battaill armed, or unarmed, etc., or of victory, etc.

- When you wilt worke, fast Tuesday till night & then in thy house with the bloud of a raven write the N[ame] of the Angell Coringer & his Character in Earth, viz, as is heare written on the right hand side [below] & call the Angell & say what you wouldest have.

• & when you wilt have it vanish close thy writ before made, & he shall passe away & be don[e].

• The Ring of Mercury is made of copper for skill, victory & all kind [of] play, & favour of Lords & greate men that they hurt thee not, etc.

• Fast Wenseday [Wednesday] till night & in the night with the bloud of a fox or catt, write the N[ame] of Angell Yparon in the skin of a goat & the character heare set or written.

& being to come before a Lord or Judge write the N[ame] of Angell Yparon in thy bre[a]st with his character, & hold the foresayd writ in thy right hand, & he shall not hurt thee nor condemne thee.

• & in thy working aske what you wilt, calling [the] Angell, etc.

• The Ring of Jupiter is made of gold, & silver equally mixed in the day & houre of Jupiter for winnings & profits & to deliver men condemned, & cause expenses [to] be recovered againe.

• Which to doe, fast Thursday till night, then with bloud of cock or buck, [181] write the N[ame] of the Angell Philomens or Philomons, in the skin of a calfe &[..]re off make a purse & put therein you wilt, & calling the Angell it shall [..]m againe, as I found it writte it doe you noe unriteousnesse, but leave sin & eschew evill & do good, nor let wicked men see these sacred things.

[seal missing in text]

• The Ring of Venus is to be made off lead in the day & houre of Venus for love of all men, & women, & to make a woman fol[low] thee whither you wilt, etc.

Fast Fryday until night, & in the night with the bloud of a culver or dove in a pleasant greene [meadow?] full of herbes or fruits write the Name of Angel Abanixtra in the skin of a hare & keepe in greene cleane silk, & as often as you shewst it to a w[oman], calling the N[ame] of the Angell, she will let thee have thy will of her.

• But doe not you [do] it [if it is a] sin, but if thy wife be not loving [as] she should, you maist pick her but noe other, etc. Within the red lines is the character of the Angell of Venus for this purpose etc.

[Margin note] But feare you the true undoubled god of truth & righteousness & doe nothing that is evill, for god will judge thee according to thy evill deeds, there[fore] eschew evill & do good, & god will bless thee, etc.\(^4\)

• The Ring of Saturn is made of white tyn \([\text{tin}]^5\), or iron, for the day & houre of 5 to bynd tongues from wicked slaunderous speech; & to speed [182] in hunting, etc.

Fast the Saturday, till night & in thy house with the bloud of a raven [write] the N[ame] of the Angell Calatyne or Galatyne & his character in paper & not in parchment, & keep it, & when you wilt prevaille in hunting, etc., call the Name of the A[ngel] & N[ame] [of] thy desire, then cast the writ into the fire. This is the character heare written on the right hand [below], but keep the ring still with thee.

[Characters of the Angels called by the rings according to the days of the week]

• Heare followeth other characters of each Planet & Angell to the same purposes before sayd set in the order of the days of the weeke.
5. Notes:

1. The text implies fasting on a Sunday night but we know other versions as for fasting until night-time, that is, fasting from sunrise to sunset, as it is practiced in the Islamic faith.
2. The color of the wild fowl is not mentioned by older texts, but the compiler does record in one note this difference, hinting us to believe he consulted more than one version of this text.

3. The Trinity, does not appear in the older versions, it might be a way of counterbalancing the presence of a clearly demonic being (the black horse) or of adapting the recipes to the compiler’s Christian faith.

4. In some cases, such as the ring of Venus or Jupiter, the compiler gives the use of the ring but then takes precaution to add moral advices (like causing love or lust only in your wife, and no other woman). These are not contained in the older texts, and all the experiments are treated as neutral, practical, and void of any moral ambivalence, including sacrificing animals. These additions might indicate either the compiler’s moral stature and upbringing, either a precaution to make the treatise more palatable to the Christian reader.

5. No other older versions require tin for Saturn, this is a late interpolation coming from the post-agrippan literature, much as the ring of Mercury is also to be made of fixed quicksilver.

| [200r] | Here begins the explanations of the miraculous signs and seven planets of the sage Mescalach. |

[1] Dixit Mescalach: Incipiam cum adiutorio Altissimj explanare signi mirabilis experimentum, dicitur autem mirabile eo quod ipsum mirabilia operantur. Nominatur aut breve signum quia per ipsum multa breviter possunt sciri, quoniam et ipsius opera consumauerunt que scire non poterant si post multorum librorum nigromantiarum et astronomorum noticiam et est signum istud mirabili valde mirandum in quo sunt secreta altissimj, Signum est per quod omnia pre interpossunt effici, ad honorem, ad divinitas, et ad amorerem, ad odium, ad fruits producendos, cum non sit tempus fructum, ad invisibilitatem, ad aquarum concursus in locis siccis.

[1] So sayeth Mescalach: We begin, with the help of the Most-High [God], the explanation of the wonderous experiments of the miracle, having called wonderous that by which miracles are worked. It is to be called the minor miracle because through it many minor things can be made known, forasmuch its workings may come to pass that cannot be known unless after taken heed of many books of the nigromants and astronomers and this is a miracle that is quite wonderful and marvelous in which there are the secret of the Allmighty, this miracle is one through which all can be accomplished, for honor, for divinity, for love, for hatred, for producing fruits when it is not the time of the fruit, for invisibility, for making water flow in a barren place [etc.]

[2] Annulus Solis ex auro; Lunae, ex argento; Martis, ex ere; Mercuris, ex |

[2] The ring of the Sun [is made] in gold; of the Moon, in silver; of Mars, in cupro; Jovis, ex electro; Veneris, ex plumbo; Saturnis, ex ferro; Capitis Draconis, ex calibe.

[3] The ring of the Sun is made in this fashion: on the Lord`s Day you shall fast until nightfall, and in then in its hour the ring should be made, in which you shall engrave the character and the name of its angel in this fashion. Guard this ring with a diligent mind and keep it in a most-clean place and wrap it in red silk. These are its works:

Igitur ad operandum cum hoc annulo ieiunes dies Solis usque ad noctem; in nocte sacrificium facies de ave non domestica prope aque litus discurrente cum eius sanguine scribe karakterem Solis et nomen angelij eius in carta virginea et tecum porta, et cum volueris de una [201r] terra transire ad aliam, karakterem Solis et nomen angeli eius depingi in terram et veniet tibi niger equus qui te turbine quo

Therefore, to work with this ring, you shall fast on the Sun`s day until nightfall; during the night, make a sacrifice of a non-domestic bird near the water, on the bank of a river. With its blood write the character of the Sun and the name of its angel in virgin paper and bear it with you, and when you will want to pass from one land to another, draw the character of the Sun and the name of its angel on the earth and a black horse shall come to you and shall bear you upon a whirlwind to where you will desire to go, having the paper in the right hand and the ring on the left.

[4] The ring of the Moon is made in the same fashion as the ring of the Sun, engraving afterwards the character and the name of its angel in the day of the Moon and in its hour. To work with this ring it is necessary that you fast on this same day until nightfall and during the night make a sacrifice of a river eel; with its blood write upon the skin of a whelp the name of the angel and its character and wrap it in the skin of the eel and keep it, and when you wish to make appear a river or a tree bearing fruit, draw on the ground the name of the angel and its character and name what you wish while invoking the angel. Open the paper (skin) in order to make it appear and to make it disappear close it. This is the ring:

[4] Annulus Lunae hoc modus fit sicut annulus Solis, sculpando secundum karakterem et nomen angeli eius in annulo die Lunae et hora eiusdem. Ad operando cum hoc annulo aportet te ipso die ieiunare usque ad noctem, nocte autem facies sacrificium de anguilla fluvialj; cum eius sanguine scribe in pelle catuli, nomen angeli et karakterem eiusdem et in pelle anguille involue et reserua, et cum volueris ut apparent flumen ver arbor cum fructu scribe in terram nomen angeli et karakterem et nomina quemque vis invocans angelum aperi chartam ut appareat; ut non apareat, claude eam. Hic est annulus:

Hic est annulus:

Hic est annulus:

[6] The ring of Mercury is in this fashion made, like all the others: make a sacrifice of a fox or cat in a deserted place, write the caracter and name of the angel in kidskin with the blood of that animal and touch it with it. Should you be with your fellows before a Judge, write the character and the name of the angel and touch it to your forehead and you shall not be condemned, while holding the paper in your hand. This is the ring:

[7] The ring of Jupiter is to be made as above, make the sacrifice of a cock, write the character and the name of the angel in calfskin in which, if you shall wrap a coin, it will return to you. This is the ring:

3. Notes:

1. It must not surprise us that the Caput Draco is treated as a planet and given a ring as well. As we have seen in later editions, it is eliminated, but Arabic astro-magical recipes will often list it as such. Also, the metallic attributions must not vex us, as there was no proper consensus of one general way the metals were attributed to celestial bodies, before Cornelius Agrippa and Paracelsus. As we can see here, while the Sun and the Moon keep gold and silver throughout, the lesser planets vary greatly, which lead modern authors to deem them as mistakes. We must not make the mistake to judge one scale of attribution as the correct one just because it became more popular since the 15th century onward.

2. The expression karacterem et nomen Angeli eius would lead us to think that both the character and the name belong to the same angel, ruled by the Sun.

3. The expression karacterem Solis et nomen angelj eius would lead us to think that the character belongs to the Sun and the name to the spirit, quite a different logic from the phrase used above.

4. It is hard to ascertain carta virginea truly means virgin (unused) paper or virgin parchment. The consensus is that parchment is rendered either as pergameno or as pelle (skin), followed by the animal of origin, while unborn parchment would be vellum. Carta or charta usually is the term used for paper, from the Greek χάρτης (khártēs, “papyrus, paper”).

The Rawlinson 252 Fragments

1. Source

Rawlinson Ms. 252, fol.80r
Bodleian Library Manuscript Rawlinson 252, known in the literature as the Rawlinson Necromantic Manuscript, is a 15th century fascinating collection of experiments and magical treatises in Latin and English, excerpts of which can be found in Frank Klaassen`s Transformations of Magic and Richard Kieckhefer`s Forbidden Rites.

Only three fragments from our treatise are contained in it, namely the rings of Jupiter and Mercury and the planetary consacration, the latter being very seldom met with in English versions, corresponding closely to the Darmstadt text.

I am indebted to professor Frank Klaassen and to Joseph Peterson for their kind help in supplying information used to write this article, whom I duly thank.

The Darmstadt Version

Seals of the eight rings, extracted from the magical circle

O. Disclaimer:
Since the publication of the fragments pertaining to this work I have been asked several naïve questions pertaining to the efficacy and validity of the results obtained by these experiments. I feel it is necessary to mention that this is merely a historical study of the magical methods described in such texts and not a practical manual. This editor makes no claims about their efficacy, veracity and does not wish to debate the morality of the results or of ethics of ritual animal sacrifice. Except for people who steal my work, both texts and images, without my consent, I do not like no to hex, curse or slaughter and exsanguinate living beings.

1. Source

After my blog post on the Darmstadt manuscript, I interrupted work on it, until the present article. Researching it further, I came upon an article by Mario Ponzi mentioning it, but more importantly, quoting Vittoria Perrone Compagni on it. She seems to validate my assessment that the manuscript is from the 15-16th century, more precisely to the first half of the 16th century, with the addition that it was most likely written or compiled in Florence, according to the filigranological evidence.

In Hs.1410, on fols.14v-19r, we have the most complete version (so far, at least) of the Liber Annulorum Septem Planetarum Sapientem Messahala, that is, The book of Ring of the Seven Planets of the Sage Messahala, about 4 or 5 times larger than the longest version, with countless detail that help us complete the puzzle of this often overlooked work.

[1] Here begins the book of the Seven Planetary Rings of the Sage Messahala, with the philosopher’s prologue. This experiment starts with an admirable sign. And so sayeth Messahala: We begin therefore with the help of the most-high God, detailing the admirable sign’s explanation. We shall say of it admirable for through it, concise wonders can be brought forth, that I have not found neither in the books of the necromancers nor those of the astrologers, but solely in this book, and there is no need to consider others because this sign that is close to us is most wonderous, and contains in it the highest secrets and constitutes a great power of the sages. And it is [15r] the sign by which all can be made to come to pass quickly or to be known, be it for love, for marriages, for honors, for producing fruits when it is not their season and for invisibility and for making water flow in barren places. By this the Indians, and the Chaldeeans and the prudent Babilonians have worked.

[2] The first ring is that of the Sun and is to be made in gold, on the day of the Sun and at the hour of the Sun\(^1\), with the character of the Sun and the name of its angel Cyroarax, to be finished in the same hour.

In noctem vero facias holocaustum de ave non domestica prope littus aquae currentis et cum sanguine eius scribe caractere Solis in carta virginea et tecum porta et cum volueris operari per te vel alium experimentum hoc, depinge karakterem Solis in terra et nomen Angeli eius et veniet equus niger qui te portabit quocumque volueris tene tamen cartam suprascriptam in manu tua dextra et annulus in digito quarto manus⁸ tue sinistre.

[20] Experimentum secundum seu: cum ergo volueris hoc experimentum operari ieiunabis in die lune usque ad noctem; in nocte vero facias holocaustum de anguilla fluvial in trivio⁹ et cum sanguine eius scribe caraceres et nomen angeli lune et in pelle catuli involue et in pelle anguille et serva. Cum autem volueris que appareat flumen vel arbor cum fructibus vel naves pugnantes scribe in terra nomen angeli lune et karakterem eius et nomina ea quae volueris nominare anguille carta¹⁰ aperta et apparebunt tibi. Cum autem volueris que dispareant, claude cartam et non apparebunt amplius donec renoves experiment.

[19] The first experiment. The first operation of these precepts, that is: if you want to have a horse that will carry you or any other messanger⁷ of yours in a moment wherever you want and return, fast on the Lord`s Say until nightfall. At night truly, make a burnt offering of a non-domestic bird near the bank of a flowing water and with its blood write the character of the Sun on virgin paper and bear it with you and when you want to operate for you or for any other this experiment, draw the character of the Sun on the earth and the name of its angel and a black horse shall come to you which will carry you wherever you want, nevertheless holding the above-said paper in your right hand and the ring on the fourth finger⁸ of your left hand.

[20] The second experiment or: when therefore you will want to work this experiment, fast in the day of the Moon until nightfall; at night truly, make a burnt offering of a river eel at a threefold crossroads⁹ and with its blood write the characters and the name of the angel of the Moon and in a whelp`s skin (sic) and [wrap it] in eel skin and keep it safe. However, when you will want to make a river appear, or a tree bearing fruits or fighting ships, write on the earth the name of the angel of the Moon and name that which you want to name with the paper¹⁰ opened and it will appear to you. However, when you want it to disappear, close the paper and and it will appear to you non more until you renew the experiment.

[21] Experimentum tertium. Tertia operatio istis artis est ad faciendum apparere quando volueris homines vel milites armatos vel non armatos et castra pugnatia et etiam ludos omnes ludibiles velut si veritas esset. Cum ergo volueris operari ieiunabis in die Martis usque ad noctem; in nocte vero facias holocaustum de animali rapaci infra domum aliquam, ad ignem et scribe de sanguine animalis eiusdem nomen angeli et characteres martis in pelle animalis et cum volueris operari scribe characteres et nomen angeli eius in terra et carta aperta nomina quod petis et apparebit statim et cum volueris que dispareat claude cartam.

[22] Experimentum quartum. Quarta operatio est artis huius ut nunque possis ab aliquot domino vel judice condemnari vel etiam superari. Cum ergo volueris hoc facere ieiunabis in die Mercurij usque ad noctem. Nocte vero facias holocaustum de vulpe vel de gatto in loco deserto et scribe characteres et nomen angeli eius in pelle hedi de sanguine recent ipsius vulpis vel gatti et cum accesseris ad judice scribe characteres et nomen Angeli eius in fronte vel pectore et tunc cum carta in manu et non condemnaberis unquem ab aliquo viuente. appear in front of the judge write the characters and the name of the angel on your forehead or chest and with this paper in hand he will not condemn you as long as either of you shall live.

| [23] Experimentum quintum. Quinta operatio huius artis est ad faciendum redire ad te omnes denarios\textsuperscript{15} quos unquem dabis alicui vel quicquid aliud dederis\textsuperscript{6}. Cum ergo volueris operari hoc ieunabis in die Jovis usque ad noctem; in nocte vero facias sacrificium de gallo et scribe de sanguine eius caracters et [16r] nomen angeli eius in pelle vituli et omnes denarij quos in pelle illa inuolues reuertet ad te et quicquid inuolueris et dederis reuertetur ad te cito et illi dicuntur debere portari in novo marsupio ad hoc deputato. |
| [25] Experimentum septimum. Septima operatio est ad faciendum redire ad te unquem enuolueris et omnes denarij quos in pelle illa inuolues reuertet ad te et quicquid inuolueris et dederis reuertetur ad te cito et illi dicuntur debere portari in novo marsupio ad hoc deputato. |

\textsuperscript{15} The fifth experiment. The fifth operation of this art is for making return to you all coins\textsuperscript{15} that you will ever give to someone or someone else will give\textsuperscript{6}. Therefore, when you will want to work this, you will fast on the day of Jupiter until until nightfall; at night truly make a burnt offering of a cock and write with its blood the characters and [16r] the name of its angel in calfskin and all coins that you shall wrap in this skin shall return and whatever you shall wrap up in it and give away will return to you quickly, and of it it is said that you must carry it in a new pouch made for this.

\textsuperscript{6} The sixth experiment. The sixth operation of this art is for making any of the women you want follow you. At night truly, make a sacrifice of a dove in a green place and with its blood write the characters and the name of its angel on hare’s skin and whenever you shall hold it in your hand and show it to a woman, she will quickly follow you.

\textsuperscript{25} The seventh experiment. The seventh operation of this art is for making hatred between whomever you want. When you will want to do this, you will fast on the day of the Sabbath until nightfall; in the morning (another: night) truly make a sacrifice of a kid goat of Venus (another: virgin) among wasps (another: wasps or veptes)\textsuperscript{16} and write the characters and name of its angel in calfskin and when you want to put hatred between two people, write their names and the characters and the name of its angel [on the parchment] and naming them, put it in a fire.

Item qualibet annulus debet sua die in crepusculo noctis diei attribute consecrari et sic fit consecratio. Fac circulum qui inferius est descriptum et scribere karakteres et nomen angeli eius per quo annulus consecratur et accipe carbones in vase vel olla de quovis ligno sive accensos sive mortuos si tunc essent mortui carbones fac ita que bene accendantur sine flamma et pone super illum ignem thimiama storacem calamitam et mumiam vel peoniam\(^{18}\) tantum de vno quantum de altero. Pone de predictis rebis in tanta quantitate quo fiat magnus fumus et tene cum manu sinistra annulum vel annulos que consecrator si plures vis consecrare eiusdem materie et teneantur super fumum. Et cum manum vero dextra tene cartam exorcismi donec totum exorcismum dixeris super ignem: Qui exorcismus sic incipit:

Thus, each ring must be consecrated in its day, namely at the dawn of the night of its attributed day and such is the consecration. Make the circle that is described below and write the characters and the name of its angel by which you shall consecrate the ring and take coals [and put them] in a vessel or pot, whichever wood would it be, either lit or dead [smouldering] and when the coals will be dead, make them smoulder well without flame and put upon this fire incense of storax, calamis and mumia or peony\(^{18}\), of each one as of the others. Put the afore-mentioned things in such a quantity that there shall be a great smoke and hold with your left hand the ring or the rings that are to be consecrated if you want to consecrate more than one of their matter and hold it [or them] over the smoke. And verily with your right hand hold the paper of the exorcism while you say the whole exorcism over the fire. Which exorcism thus begins:
Exorcismus: “Exorcizo vos creaturas planetarum spiritis dedicatos horisque eorum fortitudinis fabricatos per Vryel, Salquyel, Atroel et per fortitudinem magni principis vostri et per corona capitis eius et per omne robur voluntatis vobis principibus attributum quorum dominijs innumera exibentur preciosa vt valeatis quibus valere vos cupio et auxilium prebeatiss ad qualia estis fabricate, per virtutes quae vos constringunt in secula seculorum amen.”

Also note that all of the virgin parchment must be sacrificed beforehand by the operator just like the sacrifices of the rings.

Item nota que omnis carta virginea debet sacrificari antequem operator sicut sacrificitur predictis annulis.

[31] Intentio et expositio libri preciosi de annulis septem planetarum est talis ut tibi dicant. Scias primo que debes purus esse et vite virtuose atque prudentis et hoc ut differas a vita vulgarum quae cum hoc que sunt idiote in specialibus sunt stulti in nominibus virtuosis et ad hoc vt tuum opus et tua verba recipient gracias et ultro sapientes et virtuosi que sunt angeli celi et spiritus subdicti eius ad quos in hoc libro habes tu dirigere tuum opus et a quibus debet recipe tuum honorem ad quem intendus Deo primo et premio in omnibus existente.

[31] The purpose and exposition of the precious book of the rings of the seven planets is that which I have told you. Know that first of all, you must be pure and lead a virtuous and prudent life, and this is how your life will differ from that of the vulgar, who are thus idiots and are especially stupid under the names of the virtuous, and by this shall your work and your words receive grace over the wise and the virtuous who are the celestial angels and their subservient spirits to which in this book you shall direct your work and from whom you must receive your honors, as God ordained first and foremost in all that is.
[32] Cum ergo fueris purus fac fieri similiter octo annulos puros de metallis que determinat libellus et temporibus et horis quas determinat idem; determinat enim que annulus Solis fiat in die Solis et hora Solis taliter quod totus annulus fiat in eadem hora et nihil de facture annuli reseruetur ad aliam usque ad similem horam qua ita expositum est, quod in prima hora potest fieri annulus unus et similiter annulus lune in die lune et hora lune fiat et perficientur et sic de alijs vniuersis dum eis fit annulus factor et magister puri et animosi existentes debent continue nominare in lingua atque in memoria haberem angelum pro quo annulus fit vt si fiat annulus Solis debent in facture continue nominari lingua et memorari hic spiritus qui Cyrorax appelatur et si sit annulus martis hic spiritus qui Corniger vocatur et sic de alijs.

[32] When you are therefore pure, likewise make eight pure rings of the metals that are set forth in this booklet and in the hours and times that are also set forth. It is set forth that the ring of the Sun in to be made in the day of the Sun and in the hour of the Sun and likewise that all the rings are to be made in their own hour and no ring is not to be made in the hour reserved for another but [you must wait] until a similar hour that it is thus set forth, so in the first hour you can make the ring of one and likewise the ring of the Moon in the day of the Moon and the hour of the Moon and you shall finish, and so forth with the others, each one in each one`s [time] shall the rings be made and the master must be pure and vehement and must continuously name in his tongue as well as have in his mind the angel for whome the ring is made, so if it is the ring of the Sun, he must -in its making- continually name with his tongue and keep in his mind this spirit who is called Cyrorax and if it is the ring of Mars, this spirit who is called Corniger and so forth of the others.
[33] Ista autem nominatio et memoratio fit vel fieri post dupliciter sapientem que cuilibet magis placet [17r] vno modo solum nomen proferendo et memorando vt de Sole Cyrorax etc, continuando vel de marte Corniger Corniger Corniger etc, et sic durando quem dum durat facture annuli.

| [34] | [34] | Alio modum orationem seu postulationem sibi faciendo sic: “O Cyrorax angele Solis facio opus tuum et tue potentie et honoris annulum preciosum inspira ergo eum et dirige opus meum.” et sic de alijs continue. | Another way of praying or requesting is to be made thus: “O Cyrorax, angel of the Sun, make your work, and breathe therefore into this precious ring your power and your honor, and guide my work.” And continue likewise with the others. |
| [35] | [35] | Vel O Corniger angele Martis facio tuum et opus et tue potentie annulum et tui honoris pretiosum Inspire ergo eum et dirige opus meum et sic de alijs continue in facture orationem eadem resumendo diligentia operis habita. Et non per secularia desideria interposita serata quia angeli cum sunt sapientes perfectum modum operandi et opus intentionis volunt et non modum tediosum et otiosum et incuriosus curant. | Or “O Corniger, angel of Mars, make your work, and breathe therefore into this precious ring your power and your honor, and guide my work.” and continue likewise with the others in making the prayers, resuming afterwards the work with the usual diligence. And do not interpose worldly pleasures, for the angels being wise, will work in a perfect way and according to your work`s intent and shall not run in a tedious or idle or careless way. |
[36] Et scias que quando annulus est factus karacteres debent sculpi in nodo et in virgule nomen angeli eius totum hoc in eadem hora vt dictum est preficiendo et non a parte interior sed a parte exterior ita sculpi debent eo que instum opus anima tuum est non est opus orationis.

[36] And know that when the characters are made, you must engrave the names to the point and to the line, all in the same hour and you will finish, and not on the inside part but on the outside part you must engrave them, for it is a work for your soul not for your speaking.

[37] Quando vero isti annuli sunt facti in pixide munda et noua cum mundis inuolutionibus reponantur et non amplius inde extrahantur nisi operationis causa; quia ista talia frustra sive gloria vana non haberit locum.

[37] When verily these rings are made, you shall put them in a clean and new box with clean wrappings and you shall not take them out if you will not wish to cause a working, for in this, frustration and vanitious glory have no place.

[38] Et scias que non sufficit que in factura ipsorum que fiat in die et hora planete eius sunt imo requeritur que sit luna crescents et in numero pari sed quod luna sit 2ᵃ, 4ᵃ, ut 6ᵃ, et sit de alijs vt dicit libellus, sed ego non dico sed credo que sufficit que sit crescents et tempus bonum et tranquillum et sicut dicitur de isto annulo Solis ita debet intelligi simili modo de annulus Veneris vt que annulus Saturni fiat in prima hora diei saturni vel sabbati, vel in octaua hora quae est similiter Saturni et que luna sit crescents et que tempus sit bonum et tranquillum et his omnibus sufficienter observantius et perfectis annuli erunt perfecti et perfecte fabricati et his et aliquibus horis absentibus erunt imperfecte facti et sic inutiles erunt operationi vere et desiderate. Nec fiant hi annuli in loco privatie gentum nec in loco imundo quia munitia et secretum sunt de necessitate.

[38] And know that it is not sufficient that their making should be during the day and hour of their planet, but the Moon should be waxing and [the lunar day be] of an even number, that is when the Moon is in the second [day], the fourth [day], the sixth [day] and so of the others, as the booklet says, but I do not say this, but believe it suffices that it is waxing and the weather is good and calm. And as we speak of this ring of the Sun it is to be understood in the same fashion of the ring of Venus, as the ring of Saturn is to be made in the first hour of the day of Saturn or of the Sabbath, or in the eighth hour that is also that of Saturn, and the Moon be waxing and the weather be good and calm and this in all is sufficient to be observed and finish the ring when it ends and it shall be perfectly made and if it made in the in omnibus operationibus tuis aliter hic liber subalternaretur. Other absent hours it shall be imperfectly made and thus, useless in true and desired operations. Neither let this ring be in [near] man`s private parts, nor in an unclean place, for cleanliness and secrecy are necessary in all your operations or any that this book shall subordinate.

[39] Item scrias que non est vis si annuli hi fiant fundendo vel malleando solus que karacteres et nomina fiant sculpendo et totum in eadem hora terminetur sed tam sculptio quem fusio vel malleatio solum tuum que karacteres et nomina fiant sculpendo et que totum in eadem hora terminetur ut supra, annulis autem factis vna die dicitum cum luna erit crescens vt dictum est ieiunabis et hora prima vel octaua scribes cum incausto planete in pergameno virgineo exorcismum illum qui est in libello et incipit:

Also know that it is not powerfull if a ring is to be cast or hammered unless the characters and names are engraved and all finished in the same hour, or that the carving or melting or hammering be done only by you and that the characters and names be engraved and that all in the same hour be finished as above, the rings being made in a day as said, with the Moon waxing as we have said, you shall fast and in the first hour or eighth hour write will the paint [ink] of the planet on virgin parchment that exorcism that is in the booklet and begins thus:

[39] “Exorcizo vos creaturas planetarum spiritibus dedicatas horasque earum fortitudinis descriptus eis vt valeatis quibus vos valere cupio: [17v] et auxilia prebeatis ad qualia vos estis sacrenta descripte per virtute eis”. Nisi que scias quod hi exorcismi sunt hic positi per habendra scientia tota. Sed quando fit opus particulare sicut illud de Sole de quo modo loquimur ab vtrasque istorum debes vnum particularem exorcismum extrahere sic:

[40] I exorcize you, creatures dedicated to the spirits of the planets, described in their most powerful hours, I desire to rule those that rule you : [17v] and be granted the assistance you grant towards which you were fashioned, by their virtues. Except you should know that this exorcisms are thus placed for having the whole of the knowledge. But when there be a particular work, like that of the Sun of which we shall speak, for each one of these you must extract a particular exorcism:

[41] “Exorcizo te creatura Solis planete et spiriti eius dedicatam per Vryelem etc, vt valeas quibus te valere cupio: et auxilia prebeas ad qualia tu es annulus fabricatis per virtutes quae vos constringunt in secula seculorum, amen.

[41] “I exorcise thee, creature dedicated to the planet of the Sun and to its spirit, by Uriel etc, I desire to rule those that rule you and be granted the assistance you grant towards which you, ring, were fashioned, by their virtues that bind you onto the age of ages, amen.”

[42] Similiter alter exorcismus ehtrahitur sic:
Exorcizo te karakterem Solis planete sacri eiusque spiritui dedicatum horaque fortitudinis eius descriptum per Vryelem etc., ut valeas quibus etc., et auxilia prebeas ad quae tu rest sacra carta descripta per virtutes quae te constringunt in secula seculorum, amen.

[42] Likewise extract another exorcism thus: “I exorcise thee, creature dedicated to the sacred planet of the Sun and to its spirit and to its prescribed horary power, by Uriel etc, to rule those etc., and be granted the assistance you grant towards which you sacred paper were written, by the virtues that bind you onto the age of ages, amen.”

[43] et quando tu scripseris tuos exorcismos continue cogita: et profer in illo ieiunio nomen angeli planete et karakteres eius et tene le multum per silencitum illa die et cum erit nox et crepusculum cape vestes lineas mundas et accipe olla nouam de terra et suffumiga quando ponuntur in caracteribus et sigillis et ensem vel gladium clarum benedictum et pergamenum virginem et aliam pellem in qua precipitur scribe karakteres in libello predicto et sacrificium sicut precipit libellus vt putauem domesticam in ope solis et tunc

[43] and when you will write your exorcisms continually think and pronounce in your fasting the name of the angel of the planet and its characters and hold yourself silent for that day and when night will fall and be dusk, don new linen clothes and take a new earthen pot and suffumigate when you put in the characters and the sigils and a bright and blessed sword or gladius and the virgin parchment and other skins in which you must write the characters of the planets as it is vade ad littus aque currents et ibi cum ense vel clauo fac unum circulum cuius dyametrum sit nouem pedum dicendum orationem predictam scilicet:

“O Cyrorax angele Solis facio tuum opus etc.,” Nisi que ibi dicebatur annulus preciosum modo dic circulum et fac alium circulum intis illum distantem ab illo primo pedem vnum quo facto fiat diametrum transuersalem que respiciat orientem et occidentem quo facto sub illo diametro transuersali pertrahe aliam lineam transuersalem distantem ab illa per pedes vnum quia inter illas duas lineas debet fieri introitus scilicet ab ortu et exitu ab occasu quo facto tenes faciem versus pretem illius planete cuius est opus scilicet solis in quo loquimur modo, qua pars orientalis est solis, Consolaria Jouis, Auerana Martis, Noegalma Mercurij, Occidens lune, Frigecap vero veneris. Invocatio Christi.

Tunc ergo te respitiente versus partem Solis cuius operis puta Cyrorax in preposito que est angelus solis dehinc karacteres Solis uel eiusdem planete operis versus partem sub nomine angeli sui infra circulos ambos quo facto, cape ollam et carbones et accede eos sinem flamma et pone eos in olla intra circulos sub karactere in centro circuli vel iuxta existente et in omnibus istis debes habere continue in lingua et in memoria nomen angeli thematis. Quo facto pone suffumiga in olla super primas et ponas said in the booklet, and the sacrifice that is described in the booklet, namely the domestic [sic!] bird in the work of the Sun, and go then to the bank of the river and with the sword or a nail make make a circle of a diameter of nine feet, saying the aforementioned oration:

“O Cyrorax angel of the Sun, I perform your work, etc., All you will say in [the makig of ] the precious ring, you will say [in the making] of the circle, and make another inner circle, it being distanced from the first one by one foot, that you shall make having a transverse diameter that will go from the East to West, and make under this transversal diameter the other transversal lines distanced by it by one foot, that between these two lines must be entered from the Sun-rise and exited by the Sun-set, and these being made, face towards that same planet of which the experiment is, that is, of the Sun, in this fashion we shall speak of, that the Orient is of the Sun, the Consolaria is of Jupiter, the Averana is of Mars, the Noegalma is of Mercury, the Occident is of the Moon, Frigecap truly of Venus, Invocatio of Christ.

Then direct yourself therefore to the part of the Sun, whose work is ordained to Cyrorax, who is the angel of the Sun, towards the characters of the Sun or the work`s planet, under the name of the angel that is beneath the two circles you have made, take the vessel and the coals and light them so satis ita que faciat [18r] fumum magnum. Tunc cape annulum in manu sinistra et exorcismum annuli in dextra. Tunc tene annulum super fumum et lege exorcismum bis vel ter, qui satis debet esse sedendo in medio circuli tibijis plintis et cancellatis, quo facto pone annulum in digito quarto manus sinistre et hoc facto cape auem domesticam et macta eam in aliquot vase vitreo vel ligneo nouo et polito vel terreo vitreato sanguinem colligendo. Hoc facto perijce extra versus parte orientalem in preposito in alijs versus partes suas animal mortuum demactatum dicendo:

“O tu angele Cyrorax sacrificium tue laudis suscipe et hoc opus tui honoris amen.”

Hoc facto cum pluma eiusdem auis scribe in carta virginea nomen angeli Solis Cyrorax vel illius planete cuius est opus et caracteres eius cum sanguine in vaso vitreo seruato.

Hoc facto iterum ponem suffumigium in vase vel olla et fac satis de fumo et cum sinistra manu tene annulum super fumum et cartam istam virgineam dicendo exorcismum totum in dextra qui est exorcismus carte et lege eam bis vel tres. Quo facto repone annulus et cartam inuolutos in panno mundo in pixide noua qui pannus sit rubeus et nouus si sit opus solis ut predictum est et similiter plures annulos vniusque planete consecrare that there is no flame and put them in the vessel between the circles under the character, in the center of the circle or next to it and in all these you must have upon your tongue and mind the name of the designated angel continuously. This being done, put the suffumigations in the vessel over the first ones and put enough so that it will make [18r] much smoke. Then take the ring in the left hand and the exorcism of the ring in the right hand. Then hold the ring over the smoke and read the exorcism twice or thrice, this being done enough you must take a seat in the center of your circle, raised and covered, this being done put the ring on the fourth finger of the left hand and this being done, take the domestic bird and sacrifice it some glass vessel or new vessel made of polished wood or earthen glazed vessel, to collect the blood. This being done, throw it outside towards the East and in all above said in each of their directions, saying:

“O thou angel Cyrorax, receive this sacrifice to your praise and in your honor in this work.”

This being done, with the quill of the same bird write in the virgin paper the name of the angel of the Sun, Cyrorax, or of the planet whose work it is and its characters with the blood kept in the glass vessel. This being done, put therefore suffumigations in the vase or pot and make plenty of smoke and with the left hand hold the ring over the smoke and posses et cartas sicut vnum vel vnam si velles.

Sed si essent diuersorum planetarum non posset nisi vnum in vnam operationem. Tunc ille annulus solis et illa carta sunt consecrate ad operandum et equum habendum faciendo sicut dicitur in libello, nisi que prima vire operatio ista Solis fiat ad habendum equum et sic omnis operatio cuiuscumque planete quae est operatio prima post consecrationem facienda, et debet fieri die et hora eiudem planete cuius est opus, et luna crescent etc.

Tempora predicta eligendo sed in alijs viribus postquem equus fierit semel advocates et habitus non oportet expectari tunc tempus quando tibi placet unde in circulo non oportet scribe alium nisi caracteres solis et nomen angeli eius ut dictum est.

If there is to be for a different planet, you can do but one in one operation. Then will the ring of the Sun and its paper be consecrated to work and you can make the obtaining of the horse like it is said in the booklet, for the first operation of power is of the Sun, to obtain the horse, and likewise for all the works of each of the planets of which first work is to be done after the consecration, and it must be in the day and hour of that planet whose work it is, and the Moon be waxing etc.,

The aforementioned times being chosen, you will not need to wait for other powers once you have called and retained the horse once, but whenever it will please you, and you will not need to write in the circle anything but the character and the name as it is said.

[44] Si vero opus, si alterius planetem quem solis debet scribe in circulo character et nomen solis versus orientem et nomen angeli eius scilicet alterius

[44] If you truly work this, or another planet than the Sun, you must write in the circle the character and the name of the Sun towards the East and planete in quo operaris versus aliam partem sibi scilicet pertinentem sicut versus Consol si opus fuerit Jovis et versus frigicapi si opus fuerit Mercurij et sic de alijs. Ita que ea quae sunt solis praecipiuntur in omni opere nisi quando opus est alterius planete annulus alterius planete debet poni in digito quarto dextre manus et facies et sacrificium et exorcismus debent fieri versus partem illius planete cuius est annulus et nomen Solis et annuli mutari ut debet et nota que quando fit operatio similis cujuscumque planete debet angelus illius inuocari vt verbi gratia quando iam vis que [18v] per solem veniat equus vt dicit liber ponitur annulus auri in digite quarto sinistre manus et teneatur carta in dextera et depingatur karakter in terra cum nomine angeli Solis et dicitur sic:

[45] “O Cyrorax angele Solis equum velocitatis mihi mittere et opus tuum honoris comple nunc in hora, amen.”

Tunc statim veniet equus niger, et sine terrore eum cape et coniura sic:

“Coniuro te o bone equo quod sine terrore et sine lesionem corporis et anime mee nunc infra istam horam me sanum et saluum portes usque ad talem locum N. per virtutem et potestatem angeli Solis the name of its angel or another planet which you wish to work likewise towards that part, like towards Consol if it were the work of Jupiter, and towards Frigicap if it were the work of Mercury, and so forth of the others.

Thus take in all works all that it is [required] of the Sun, so when the work is that of another planet, the ring of this other planet is to be placed on the fourth finger of your right hand, and your face and the sacrifice and the exorcism must be towards the part of that planet who`s ring it is, and change the name of the Sun and the ring as needed, and note that when there will be a similar work of each of the planets, you must invoke its angel and speak its might when you will want it by which [18v] by the [might of ] Sun the horse came, as the books says, and put the ring of gold on the fourth finger of the left hand and holding the paper in the right and having had drawn the character on the earth with the name of the angel of the Sun, and [sic] say this:

[45] O Cyrorax angel of the Sun, send to me a horse of speed and complete your work in this hour, Amen.”

Then there will quicly come a black horse and without fear seize him and conjure as follows:

“I conjure thee, o, good horse, that without fright and without harm to my body and my soul, now in the space of this hour bear me whole and healthy

Secunda operatio est consecratio annulorum et karakterorum in circulo rationem cuius consecrationis introducitur forma in materia annuli nominis et karakteri, que forma non est aliud quam confirmatio virtutis originalis date nomini similiter ab initio munda. Tertia operatione est finalis ad quam due predicte finaliter ordinantur. Item nota que per positionem annuli in digito et per operationem carte et descriptionem |
| [47] What follows now, take heed, that in this booklet there is a precious part, consisting of the fact that each planet’s effect three works are indeed one. The first is made to the virtues of the angels that are superior to man, according to their appointed times, of all the angels whose friendship we beseech of them a certain miracle. The second operation is the consecration of the rings and the characters in the circle, by whose reason of consecration introduces the forms of the names and the characters in the matter of the ring, which form is nothing else but the confirmation of the original virtue given to the name likewise, in the beginning of the world. The third work is the final one, to wich end the two aforementioned | nominitis similiter in Terra et petitionem que fieri debet efficitur res mira et desiderata per qua est tota operatio elaborate.

Item nota quod sicut precessista in secunda operationem tuum operationum similiter debes precedere in alius operationibus aliorum planetarum nisi que mutetur dies ieiunij vt dicit liber et locus vbi debet fieri circulus ut dicitur super et sacrificium illiud fiat ut dicit auctor super, sed idem est modus pertrahendi circulum in omnibus et scribendi.

[48] Nota similiter quod in vna operacione circuli actualis nunquem debent scribe nisi si duo scilicet nomen et caracteres similiter et nomen angeli Solis et alterius planete cuius est opus. Et nomen similiter ad illias partes mundi quae attribuntur planetis eisdem quam annulus Solis in operationem est necessarius et nomen solis in circulo superdicto super cartam cum penna eiusem auis de qua sit sacrificium si auis sit, si vero non cum penna auis sacrificij licet non sit hoc de necessitate posatum sed de bene esse sed bene melius esset quem aliter.

[49] Hoc opus est magne virtutis et are ordained. Therefore take heed that by the placement of the ring upon your finger and by the work of the paper and the depicting of the names likewise on the earth and the petitions that are to be made, wonderful and desired things will be accomplished, for which the whole work has been elaborated. Therefore take heed that the way you proceeded your second work you must proceed in all the works of the other planets, only changing the day of the fasting as the book says, and the place where the circle is to be made as said above and its sacrifice that is to be made, as the author says above, so this is the way to draw the circle and write in all of them.

[49] Take heed also that in one actual operation you must never write anything except two things, those being the name and the characters, like the name of the angel of the Sun [sic] and of the other planet whose work it is. And the name likewise, in those parts of the world that are attributed to its planet, so that the ring of the Sun in the work is necessary and the name of the Sun in the above-mentioned circle, over the paper with the quill from the same bird that is sacrificed, and if not truly possible with a quill of the sacrificed bird, it is not necessary in order to be good, but it is better than any other.

[49] This work is of great virtue and certitudinis per quod poteris te felicem in hoc seculo seculorum. Si ordinibus superius seruatis maxima cum mundicia et silencio feceris et sine vana gloria. Et hic sicut liber de annulis nominibus et characteribus septem planetarum ad laudem dei omnipotentis.

[50] Et ecce oratio preparatiua quam similiter dico ad bene esse.

“O angeli sancti et potentes in terra, aere et abisso Captiel Satquiel Samael Raphael Anael Michael et Gabriel domini septem celorum et planetarum per Saday gloriosum qui ab initio vos constituit super celestes angelos saturnales, joviales, martiales, solares, venerios, mercuriales, et lunares et super vniuersos que sunt in igne et super omnes que sunt in aere et super cunctos que sunt in terre et aquis, ego adiuro vos per domini viuente On Ely Agla hatyonadabazar et precor vos per deum et dominus nostrum Iesum Christum Homo, Petra, lapis, Redemptor, leo, lux, Gloria, Sanctus, ac postulo a vobis per septime cellos et omnes virtutes eorum et per quatuor mundi partes et per omnes habitants in eisdem et per virtutes influentes luces lucentes, et per incorruptibilem dominem Athanatos, intangiblem et permanentem quod mihi N.f.N. immittatis applicetis ac partier obedientes faciatias vel obedientifetis hos septem alia octo angelos subditos vestros scilicet Cyrorax, Phytoneus, Corniger, certainty, by which you can be made joyous onto the age of ages, if you shall keep the orders described in it with utmost cleanliness and conduct them silence and without vane glory. [50] And here is a preparatory oration that you must likewise say for all being well.

“O thou holy angels and powerful over the earth, the air and the abyss, Captiel Satquiel Samael Raphael Anael Michael et Gabriel, lords of the seven heavens and the seven planets, by Saday the glorious who from the begging constituted you over the celestial angels, saturnials, jovials, martials, solarials, venerials, mercurials and lunarials, and over all that are in fire and over all that are in the air and over those who are in the earth and waters, I adjure you by the Living God On Ely Agla hatyonadabazar and beseech you by our Lord and God Iesum Christum Homo, Petra, lapis, Redemptor, leo, lux, Gloria, Sanctus, and entreat you by the seven heavens and all their virtues and by the four parts of the world and by all their inhabitants and by the virtues of the influences of the shining lights, and the incorruptible God Athanatos, intangible and permanent, that you render to me N. son of N. and make humble and

3. Notes

1. As stated in Kassel Version notes 2 and 3, the treatise varies in the attribution of the character: sometimes the character is attributed to the planet and separate of the angel, sometimes the character and the name of the angel are called together, indicating that the character is proper to the angel.

2. Corniger appears in the Sworn Book of Honorius (Peterson, Joseph, Ibis Press, 2016, p.279): Corniger rex meridionalis, et habet 4 ministros in 4 mundi partibus. // Trocornifer in oriente. // Malafier in occidente. // Euiraber in meridie. // Mulcifer in septemtrione. Et quilibet habet legiones centum, et in qualibet sunt demones 4500, qui omnes istis 4 obediunt et subduntur. Et isti 4 sunt qui possunt omnes alios spiritus a thesauris absconditis fugare ligare et constringere, et sunt ministri infernales. [Corniger is king of the southand he has four attendents in the four parts of the world: Trocornifer in the East, Malafier in the West, Euiraber in the South, Mulcifer in the North. And each of them has hundreds of legions, and in each legion is 4500 daemons, who all obey and are subject to these four, and these four are able to drive away all other spirits from hidden treasures, to bind and to constrain, and they are the ministers of Hell.] We must therefore question the angelicity of the spirits names in this treatise.

and do not correspond to the classical attributions popularized by Cornelius Agrippa.

4. While invocating and chanting names are common in such texts, it is very rare that a mental attitude is advised, to compliment the oral element. In later versions this part is completely overlooked.

5. While later texts only mention sacrifices (sg: sacrificium), this version is the first, to my knowledge, to also call them burnt offerings (sg: holocaustum). This, along with the the other ritual prescriptions, change our view of the sacrifices made to accompany these consecrations: the first set of sacrifices are to be made to obtain the skins, that once cured in lime and dried procured the magician with the parchments, while the second set is of the animal prescribed in the experiment, presumably decapitated, drained of blood in a glass or earthen vessel (which blood was to be kept, consecrated and used for writing on the parchments), burned on the fire and tossed outside the circle while entreating the planetary angel to accept the offering, a much more complete and complex image than one would have suspected while reading the later versions of this text. Whilst we can assume that sacrifices were made to demons exclusively if judging from a biased and modern stance, older texts, such as the Sepher Ha Razim, contradict this.

6. The phase of the Moon (increasing) and its age (exclusively even days, 2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16) are generally mentioned in ritual and astral magic books
(most notoriously in the Lemegeton and the Thesaurum Spirituum) but are lacking in later versions.

7. The text makes a point in stressing, especially with the rings of the Sun and Mercury) that the efficacy of the experiments are not reserved solely to the operator, but might be employed by any any person the magician wishes and have the same effect as for himself, presumably to offer some sort of objective veridicity of the phenomena obtained through them.

8. The fourth finger beginning with the index, presumably, as other texts specify the little finger explicitly.
9. A trivia is a short Latin word equivalent to the long English expressions crossroads where three ways meet, much like the quadrivia is the crossroads where four ways meet.

10. Contrary to earlier conclusions drawn for later texts, carta is not the paper material per se, further reading revealing the necessity of properly sacrificed parchment, but the parchment inscribed with characters, the document (cedula).

11. The scribal abbreviation āīā commonly replaces the word animalia. The Kassel version keeps this sense, but British versions (Camdrige) substituted avia (bird), and thus the expression animalia rapaci (animal of prey) became avia rapaci (bird of prey), simplified even more in Rawlinson 252 as raven.

12. infra (under) became corrupted to intra (inside).

13. The verb superare might mean two different things: the standard meaning would be to go above or to go over someone, to bypass their authority, while the most common use of the word, perpetuated in other Romance vernaculars, would be to make someone mad, to enrage or to cross someone. I have decided to go with the latter here, although the former might also be accurate.

14. Gatto is an Italian word for cat, not Latin, supporting the manuscript’s Florentine origins.

15. Although one might be tempted to make assumptions, the use of the word denarius is not of much help in placing the origin of the text, as the Roman denarius was the model of the Italian denaro, the Spanish dinero and the Arabic dinar. The word is an umbrella-term for all coins, not a specific historical numismatic unit.

16. The compiler clearly used at least two texts, writing parallel variations to what he considered flawed portions. Thus, the operator must not sacrifice a venereal kid-goat among wasps, in the morning, but a virgin kid-goat among brambles, at night.

17. Caprina could mean a young female goat on one hand, or a general name for all animals in the caprine family.

18. Storax is a resin extracted from Liquidambar orientalis. Calamin refers to sweet reed root, Acorus Calamus. Mumia is hard to pinpoint precisely, since it was both the name of bitumen and that of a ground up or liquid powder obtained from actual Egyptian mummies. The fact that it is to be replaced with Peonia (a large number of fragrant flowers in the Paeonia genus) makes one wonder about the strictness of this incense`s recipe.

19. Vriel, that is, Uriel, is generally called upon in this treatise in a trinity of angelic powers: Vryel, Salquyel, Atroel [29], Vryelem etc [41, 42], per Vryelem et Barachielem et Acroelem [45]. This parallels The Sworn Book of Honorius, where Uriel rules over the Jovian and Venerial spirits, and Hocroel over the lunar spirits, and is also the angelic teacher of the same Honorius. It is to be noted that in both Catolic and Eastern Orthodox tradition, Uriel and Barachiel are celebrated as archangels. Salquiel is more than likely a corruption of Satquiel, angel of Jupiter. In the Rawlinson 252 fragment, the triad is Vryel, Salatiel, Acoel.

20. magni principis vostri et per corona capitis eius is a phrase that enforces upon the rings the authority of a power that rules directly over the eight astral spirits. The Prince and the Crown upon his head might send readers wondering if this is to be understood as a demonic power or an angelic power. The only angelic authority that is called singularly in conjurations and has a lance and a crown, and also rules over planetary spirits in Arabic magic, would be Metatron. Although not very proeminent in Western magic, Arabic magic treatises (such as Shams Maarif, Manba Usul Al-Hikmah, Al-Ajnass or Kitab Shumus al-Anwar etc) often employ him as an authority over the seven terrestrial kings of spirits, a category to which our “angels” might better be a part of. Metatron’s crown is known to have been the subject of apocryphal and magical authors. (Orlov, Andrei: Yahoel and Metatron: Aural Apocalypticism and the Origins of Early Jewish Mysticism, Mohr Siebeck, 2017, p. 156). The Sworn Book, where Cornifer is a demon, has a similar hierarchy of planetary spirits, and they are conjured (p.270-271) per capuum principis vostri belzebub, cui debetis obedire [by the head of your prince belzebub which you must obey.] and, in another segment, this very expression is used, p.246-247: Capud et corona principis vestri belzebut [the head and the crown of your prince belzebut.] My personal lenience is towards Belzebut but until we might find solid textual evidence that this prince is either, I reserve judgement.

21. The last part of the conjuration might keep an echo of Pseudo-Dionysius the Areopagite’s celestial hierarchy, where Domini might be Dominations, Principis might be Principalities and Virtutes might be the Virtues, but this is conjectural.
22. In this small and seemingly insignificant note, two things are clarified: carta, which would normally be paper, and so translated in the other versions, is clearly indicated here as obtained via sacrifice, so ordinary paper is ruled out, leaving only parchment. The second thing is that this parchment is obtained not by purchase or regular parchment-making, but it is to be obtained by a similar ritual sacrifice, much like the virgin parchment obtaining procedures delineated in the Hygromantetia (The Magical Treatise of Solomon, Skinner, Marathakis, Golden Hoard, 2012). Cf. note 2.

23. The legenda of the circle does not appear in the manuscript itself, I have edited it in for clarity, since the names of the angels do differ slightly from the text. The characters have been isolated and presented in an appended chart. One peculiarity of this arrangement is the order: while the text always presents these in the week order, the circle presents the planets in the Chaldeean order (Saturn-Moon plus Caput Draco), beginning in the Northern cusp.

24. Although being called angels throughout, the spirits that are the aim of the rituals contained in the book are subjected to the angels, thus they are a different class of beings, much like the Kings of the Air in The Sworn Book and the Heptameron, and presumably demonic, or at least neutral.

25. The expression in nodo et in virgule can be translated both figuratively and literally. The figurative meaning is precisely, to the point, exactly, while the literal meaning is that the letters are to be engraved by marking the points of the letters with ample points or knots and uniting them with small lines, which will produce letters that are similar to the characters that can be seen on many Gnostic gems and rings, later developing into magical scripts like Malachim. I find that the expression to the point and to the line answers the needs of both meanings equally well.

26. The two variants given for the jeweler-haruspice seem identical, being a ring cast, hammered, refined and engraved in the same planetary hour, but I suppose that the second set of instructions is meant to indicate that the ring may be worked in the space of an hour if the work is too complex, and finished in the next planetary hour by engraving. In all fairness, forging a ring and engraving it and performing a sacrifice and writing an amulet with its blood, all in the same hour, does seem like a laudable feat for any man, no matter the skill attained in each of these arts.

27. Short form of the exorcism. For the full version see [29]
28. Both ensis and gladius are rendered in English as sword. The ensis is much closer to the image of the classical sword, usually with a long, double blade and a cruciform guard, while the gladius is a short and robust sword, used since Antiquity, especially by Celts, Germans and popularized by Romans.

29. The list of the names of the cardinal directions is truly strange and does not appear in any classical author with one exception The Sworn Book (Peterson, op. cit. p.241). The appended table shows the directions named in TSB in chapter CXXVIII, with their proper planetary rulers.

30. This reading proved problematic both for me and others, and if deciphered incorrectly, I am open to suggestions. The Scribal note is

31. Quite possible an error since all instructions thus far and subsequent ones require the left.

32. Almost identical formula, albeit shorter, to the exorcism in [29].

33. The name of the explicit is almost identical to the Cambridge version, Liber de Angelis, Annulis, Karecteribus & Ymaginibus Planetarum.

34. N. filius N. N. son of N. is the most common reflexive appellation in Arabic magic as well as other Oriental practices, the operator being named as son of his mother.

35. In the last portion of the text, the seven lords of the planetary heavens are called upon, listed in the Chaldean order: Captiel (Saturn), Satquiel (Jupiter), Samael (Mars), Raphael (Sun), Anael (Venus), Michael (Mercury) and Gabriel (Moon). Since they appear in a conjuration that seems added to the main text, and since the order is different, we might suspect a later interpolation. They make no appearance until the end. The names and attributes however, are consistent with Liber Juratus and the Elucidarium Nigromantiae.
