Introduction

One of the great currents in the history of spiritual exploration leads back to John Dee, and his so-called Enochian system of magic. Dee was one of the leading scientists and occultists of his age. In 1582 he undertook a series of “Mystical Experiments.”¹ Two of Dee’s key sources, Liber Iuratus Honorii (“the Sworn Book of Honorius”, hereafter LIH), and the Summa Sacre Magice (SSM) are intimately connected, since the latter draws extensively on the former. The latter text, compiled by Berengar Ganell in 1346 CE, encapsulates a different version of the former; in some ways it represents an earlier version. Dee quickly became convinced that he was communicating with supernatural creatures, and sought their help in resolving the differences, leading to a whole new system.

The biggest difference in the two versions of the Sworn Book is the prayer book used. While the so-called “northern European version” uses prayers from the “glossed version” of Ars Notoria, Ganell’s version uses prayers from the little prayer book edited here, Liber Trium Animarum (hereafter LTA).² It consists of fifty-one prayers, containing sacred names of God and angels. Since it has some claim to being the older, it may evidence the loss of the LTA prayers at some point in the northern textual transmission.

Date

The date of Ganell’s text, 1346, provides a terminus ante quem for the LTA. If the text referred to as *Liber Sacratu*s by William of Auvergne circa 1230 is in fact an earlier version of LIH, our text could be 116+ years earlier.³

Contents

The title seems to allude to the “redemption of three souls from Purgatory” from the Sworn Book. Helping to free souls from Purgatory was a recurring theme of Medieval spirituality. In both versions, Honorius gives it priority in his system – after the prerequisite divine vision, and the vision of purgatory and hell and knowledge of the souls suffering there. The recommended petition for this purpose includes identifying three of them by name.⁴ This is supported by references in the text, such as the passage (in prayer 2), “may they (the angels) be glad today at the crying out of this prayer for these souls, who are in expectation of salvation;” and (prayer 4) “may your name Agla, give respite to the souls who are there” (in infernus/Hell). This is even more explicit in prayers 16 and 17, with a historiola of the deliverance of the three children from the blazing furnace in Daniel 3, and invocation of the name of God to “pierce through to hell”, calling upon his voice to break their chains and release them from their suffering.

The opening and closing paragraphs seem to be additions by Ganell.

The opening paragraph is no doubt one of the “connecting paragraphs” added by Ganell to “compile a unitary volume” from his otherwise eclectic collection.⁵

1 Dee and Peterson 2003, pp. 12, 70.

2 Véronèse 2007 pp. 135 ff. He dates the “glossed version” to the 14th century. Both texts cite the prayers by internal reference number. For example, Honorius writes in chapter CXIII.2: “Then he should bless the place for the circle, saying Prayer 15.”

3 Peterson 2016 pp. 11-12.

4 For the so-called “northern-European version” of the Sworn Book, see Peterson 2016. Honorius discusses the importance of redeeming souls from purgatory in several places, especially CII.1-2, and gives specific wording for the petitions in CII.3 and CXXXVI.8. Compare SSM L.4.f.22-23.

5 Veenstra 2012, p. 153.

This is followed by the actual prayers. While the Ars Notoria-derived prayers in the Northern LIH consist largely of voces magicae or nomina barbara (“magic words” or “barbarous names”), the body of the LTA prayers make abundant references to the magic techniques of Honorius, including consecrations, suffumigations, a magic circle, and spirit bindings.

A list of the uses of each prayer is included at the end.

Ganell uses the closing paragraphs to reiterate one of his core theories and themes, namely the use of tables of “astral alphabets” to construct “wonder-working words.”⁶ This doesn’t seem to have much relationship with the Liber trium animarum or LIH texts proper. Near the end he also includes a characteristic polemic against Islam conspicuously absent from the northern European Honorius.⁷

Supernatural beings in the LTA

The text mentions various classes of non-physical beings: angeli benigni et maligni (“good/kind and bad/destructive angels”). These are also referred to as spirits. Unlike Honorius, the term daemon is never used.

The dyabolus (“devil”, O37) is also referred to as Sathana (“Satan”),⁸ inimicus (“the enemy” of God, O31), malignus (“the evil one”, O8), felleus (“the bitter/venomous one”, O37) or hostis crudelis (“the cruel enemy”, O24).

Wicked or evil spirits are classified as infernal, earthly, or aerial (cf. O14; consistent with Honorius LIH.III.9). They are described as being able to induce fear, and having evil arrows and evil flames of hellfire that can harm the body. They are said to be deceptive and give consilium pravum (“twisted advice”). They are also referred to as fella (“bitter” or “venomous”), as terrores mali (“evil terrors”), as inimici dyaboli (“hostile devils”, O23), or hostes (“enemies”, O28).

The good angels are also referred to as nuncii (“messengers”). They are described as luminosus & claritas (“bright and shining”), and can bring power and protection. The text mentions nine choirs of angels, probably the same codified by pseudo-Dionysius in the mid-sixth century, and widely accepted by the medieval church. Five of those nine choirs are named: Seraphim, Cherubim, Principalities, Powers, and Virtues. To these could be added Angels and Archangels (here called heavenly princes), leaving only Thrones and Dominations unmentioned. Prayers 13 and 18 includes petitions to send the “celestial guardian.” O18 also refers to the angelus saturnali (“Saturnian angel”) and the Sol ... et angelus ipsum regens (“the Sun and the angel ruling it”).

Only seven angels are named in the text: Four are well-known from the Bible and Apocrypha: Michael, Gabriel, Raphael (who appears in Tobit), and Uriel (who appears in 2 Esdras). The other three are less common: Thobiel, Raguel, and Raziel. The seven together do not appear as a group in LTA, and are not found in such a grouping elsewhere to my knowledge.

Raguel appears in Enoch I.20 along with Michael, Gabriel, Raphael, and Uriel, but not Thobiel. Thobiel (Var: Tobiel, Thoubiel) is one of six heavenly princes called on for help in LTA (Michael, Gabriel, Uriel, Thobiel, Raphael, Raziel – O14, O15, O30). A similar but not identical list appears in the Book of Oberon (Michael, Gabriel, Uriel, Thobiel, Raphael, Barachiel).⁹ Liber Razielis (15th ce) § 260 has a list of angels which include Raphael, Gabriel, Michael, Uriel, Raguel, and Thobiel, but it is part of a longer list of 77 names.

I have appended an index of angelic and divine names. Most are well-known Hebrew and Greek names attested in other magic texts, but some appear to be unique to this text.

For this edition, I have used italics to indicate where the text is quoting from well-known biblical or liturgical texts. It especially draws on the Psalms, the well-known hymn Te Deum, and the Song of the Three Holy Children.

Liber trium animarum

SEt¹⁰ quia in capitulo sumus Orationum ut pluries supra sunt orationes allegatae que non ponebantur Sicut in Inuocatione 7 regum, Et angelorum bonorum. Et in sacratione quadragenali. Ideo ut liber non sit diminutus, neque opus truncatum, siue egenum pono tibi omnis illas oraciones artis noue que sunt orationes libri 3 animarum. Et non te tedeat, quare ponimus tot oraciones. Quia non omnem te intrittere de magica nisi has omnis habeas, quare nichil sine ipsis unquam optineres, nam principalia fundamenta magice sunt iste oraciones. Et nomen Dei sememphoras. Et litere 4 sectarum, que sunt forme stellarum, ex quibus litteris constant & fabricantur omnis iste oraciones, et omnia nomina sememphoras vel alia.¹¹ Et fides secte quam tenes. Et jeiunium, ac mundificatio secundum illam sectam. In istis 4 fundatur magica tota. Et magis in oracionibus & fide legis, vel secte.

C Qui ergo caret hiis orationibus caret fundamento uno principalium. Et qui caret fundamento caret fundato, que est opus mirum vel magicum quod tu desideras. Ergo si oraciones dimissemus omnis, frustra alia que diximus scripsissemus, & docuissemus. Quare non te pigeat sarcine oracionum, si magus vis esse, quare sine eis tibi est impossibile.

Prima oracio libri trium animarum est hoc.

Audiant celi id quod ego loquor. Audiat terra uerba oris mei. Audiant angeli benigni & maligni quo desero temptationes malignas et reuertor ad deum meum qui me creauit. Ego confiteor deo meo adonay regi regum deo glorioso, eye assereye id est domino dominancium.

The Book of Three Souls

Since we are in a chapter of prayers that have often been mentioned, but not included above, such as in the invocation of the seven kings, or of the good angels, or in the forty-day consecration, therefore in order that this book not be lessened, nor the work deficient or lacking, I set before you all those prayers of the New Art, which are the prayers of the Book of Three Souls. And don't be bothered that we present so many prayers, because you would not be able to attain anything without them, for these prayers are the principal foundation of magic, and the Sememphoras name of God, and the letters of the four sects, which are forms of the stars, from which letters all these prayers, and all the Sememphoras or other names are dependent and constructed, as well as the faith of the sect that you hold to, and fasting and purification according to that sect. In these same four are founded all of magic, and more in the prayers and faith of the law or sect.¹²

Therefore he who is without these prayers is without one of the principle foundations. And he who lacks a foundation lacks a basis, which is the wonderful or magical work that you desire. If we dismiss all the prayers, all other things which we have written and taught will have been in vain. So, if you wish to be a magus, don't let yourself feel burdened by all these prayers, for without them it would be impossible for you.

The first prayer of the Book of Three Souls is thus:

May the heavens hear what I say. May the earth hear the words of my mouth. May the kind and destructive angels hear that I have abandoned destructive temptations, and return to my God who created me. I confess to my God Adonay, the King of Kings, glorious God, Eye-Asser-Eye, that is, the Lord of Lords.

I confess to that all-powerful God, whose name is beyond reckoning, against whom I have sinned, by swearing idly against him so often, who is without number and without end. Because of this I see myself greatly burdened, and if he doesn't extend his great mercy upon me, I fear that the enemy may assault and beat me.

But I seek his mercy through his great kindness, so that he may deem me worthy to be spared from this sin, and which he himself can lift from upon me.

Afterwards I failed because of my great ignorance, because I carelessly spoke his most holy names, and with my polluted hands I have written them, and shaped and created them through my ignorance, and I have not examined their sanctity, but I realize that I am blameworthy. And I humble myself before Him so that he might not look on my sin, but may his mercy come to my aid.

Here you must confess all your mortal and venial failings. And at the end proclaim loudly all the holy things that you wish. And specifically you should say these general litanies:

The Litanies

May the heavens be opened to the voice of my mouth. And may the benevolent angels hear the sound of my voice, O holy Michael, holy Gabriel, holy Raphael, holy Uriel, holy Thobiell, holy Cherubim and Seraphim, holy Principalities and Powers. May all super-celestial Virtues³⁰ intervene on my behalf, for the Lord my savior, so that he might dismiss my sins. And may you be an advocate for me, and direct my deeds. O holy patriarchs Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, O holy prophets David, Noah, Moses, Elijah, Zachariah, and all others. O holy apostles Saint Peter, Saint Paul, Saint Andrew, Saint James, Saint Simon, Saint Thaddaeus, Saint Judas (son of James), Saint John, and the others,³¹ pray today in the presence of the highest king, on behalf of this sinner. O Saint Stephen, Saint Laurence, Saint Cyrillus, Saint Julitta, Saint Martin, Saint Anthony, and all saints – male and female – pray for me. And may you be my protection, and direct my deeds.

O holy Mary, crown and flower of maidens, O beauty of the angels, brightness of the vault of heaven, hear the voice of this sinner by the joys which you have had from your son, by the annunciation, birth, Epiphany, resurrection, and ascension, and all other

Et per lac quo ipsam lactasti, te reclamo et supplico ego licet indignus tibi flori florum castitati, virginum exemplo peccatorum consolationi desolatorum, matri orphanorum, fonti viuo misericordie. Fonti pietatis & leticie clamo. Exaude me per tui misericordiam, quia tibi supplico sicut peccator mortalis. Roga pro me tuum filium gloriosum ut mea peccata deleat de libro inferni, et robur et victoriam mihi det contra impium talem, que totum suum posse possim deprimere, et sub pedibus meis ponere totam suam prauam superbiam, per illum qui est, deus viuus & verus eyeassereye, qui viuut & regnat in secula seculorum ex nunc & usque in seculum, Amyn, Amyn.

Oracio 2

R Ex adonay parce mihi secundum magnam misericordiam tuam, et super facturam tuorum summorum operum, respice in tua misericordia, et non in meo peccato, dele iram et rancorem mei animi obscuri, et clarifica mis opera sicut splendor solis. Presentetur mea confessio coram tua presenciam. Aperi os meum, et ipsum manifestet laudem tuam. Contra te solum peccaui, & domine non me corripas in ira tua, neque spernas clamorem meum, set fac me esse saluum, et dele mea peccata de libro inferni. Audi & intende clamorem vocis me, in nomine tuo mirabili deus meus, eye assereye, qui viuus & regnas principium & finis, per quem omnia, et in quo omnia facta sunt, formata & creata, cui dant laudem angeli quos creasti dicentes, kados, kados, kados, adonay sabaoth, pleni sunt celi et terre gloria tua osanna in excelsis,³² cherubin clarificus, cheraphin summe potens, principatus, & potestates terribiles, et a[u]ctorizabiles.³³ Intercedite pro me illi qui vos creauit, et dirigite meos passus, et fortificate vias meas. joys which you have had from him. And by the milk with which you have suckled him, I cry out and pray to you, although I am unworthy, to you the flower of flowers of chastity, example of virgins, comfort to the despair of sinners, mother of orphans, the living spring of mercy. I cry out to the spring of kindness and joy. Hear me by your mercy, because I pray to you as a mortal sinner. Pray for me to your glorious son, that he may erase my sins from the Book of Hell, and may he give me strength and victory against such accursed things, all of which I would be able to conquer with his help, and crush all the enemy's depraved arrogance under my feet, by Him who is, God living and true Eye-Asser-Eye, who lives and reigns throughout the ages, from now until eternity, Amyn, Amyn.

Prayer 2

O king Adonay, spare me according to your great mercy, and the highest handiwork of your creation, look upon us in your mercy, and look not on my failings, but erase the anger and darkness of my soul. Make my works worthy of praise, like the splendor of the sun. May my confession be presented before your presence. Open my mouth, that it may demonstrate your praise. I have sinned against you alone. O Lord, do not chastise me in your wrath, nor scorn my cries, but save me, and erase my sins from the Book of Hell. Hear and attend to the outcry of my voice, in your wonderful name O my God, Eye-Asser-Eye, who you lives and reigns, the beginning and the end, through whom and in whom all things have been made, formed, and created, to whom the angels, which you created, give praise, saying, Kados, kados, kados, Adonay Sabaoth, Heaven and Earth are full of your glory; Hosanna in the highest, the illustrious Cherubim, the most powerful Seraphim, the Principalities, and frightful Powers, rightful and approved. Intercede on behalf of me, who He created, and direct my steps, and fortify my ways. Illuminate my perception, rectify my memory, animate my body, and sharpen my tongue, and be willing to listen to the sound of my crying out, and heed the power of the Most High Deity, and may you be constrained by me through the power of Adonay, and may the winds die down, and the flames be extinguished, and may they have quiet and respite, and may they be glad today at the crying out of this prayer for these souls, who are in expectation of salvation, through the frightful name that can be written with four separate letters, A.g.l.a. And through that highest one who created all things, Eye-Asser-Eye, to whom be praise and glory

Prayer 3

O God of my justice, hear and incline your ears to the words of my mouth. Attend to the voice of my prayer, my king and my God, because I will pray to you, O Lord. In the morning you will hear my cries, for you are not a God who wills iniquity. Justify my heart and mind, and attend to my outcry, an unjust sinner, and may the sky be opened and purified, and the ill winds cease blowing. And may the good angels rejoice in my voice, and may the bad ones be obedient to your great name, Eye-Asser-Eye, and may they be directed to me, in and by the power of that act, and may my mind be glorified. And may my suffumigations reach your presence. And may the prayers that I have presented be kindly accepted by the good angels, in your great name Joth He Vau He, in and through which all things have been accomplished and created, which today adds strength and good fortune to my petition by calling your name, although I am a sinner, if you allow it, O living God, who is Alpha and Omega – the Beginning and the End, to whom the angels which you created give praise, saying, “Glory and praise to God in the highest, and may honor and praise be to Him, by us on Earth as it is in the Heavens,” offered to you O God, who lives and reigns, throughout the ages, from now until eternity, Amyn, Amyn.

Prayer 4

Adonay, glorious king, O God, hear and consider the voice of my prayer, and strengthen and sharpen my tongue in perfect virtue, that the sound of your glorious name, Eye-Asser-Eye, may enter into hell and pierce it, and go forth from that place to bind the wicked, and may they fear me, and extinguish their flames, and may your name Agla, give respite to the souls who are there. O God of my justice, hear what I say, and attend to the voice of your great name Saday, and place the blessing into my body, in your blessed name Hel, and save my body with power, and give it vigor, so that it may constrain and bind, and to unbind, collect together, and cause the wicked spirits to come to me – infernal, earthly, and aerial, and the beneficent celestial ones; by your power, O my God, who is in Heaven, with authority over all thrones,

Oracio 5

Altissima deitas que creasti me ad tuam ymaginem, & me⁴⁶ permisisti temptare maligno. Intende hodie verba mea, salua me deus in tua iusticia, & non me iudices in furore tuo, neque in ira tua corripias me,⁴⁷ set miserere mei quia fragile est mea natura in tuo magno nomine, anabona, vel deo altissimo, salua corpus meum, & sensum meum, et dirige mis memoriam in tuo magno nomine mirabili, ya, dirige actus meos. the Trinity in unity, and unity in Trinity, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, three persons in one ousia ("substance"). In whom, and through whom are all things, who lives and reign in the highest, and will reign forever and ever.

Prayer 5

O highest deity, who created me in your own image, and gave permission to the wicked one to test me. Listen today to my words; save me O God in your justice, and don't judge me in your fury, nor chastise me in your anger, but have mercy on me because my nature is weak. Save my body and senses in your great name, Anabona, or "the highest God," and guide my memory in your great and wonderful name, Ya. Guide my deeds, strengthen my eyes, and give them clarity of the grace of your immeasurable Spirit. And may my spirit be illuminated with your grace. O God, who created the Sun, who formed the stars, O God who created the waters, the earth, the trees, and the birds of the skies, and all beasts walking over the earth, and you have given me the diligence to capture them, and have them serve me; let your power be given to me today, along with the virtue, strength, and illumination of the Holy Spirit, so that I may be able to constrain the wicked ones, through you the living God, and through your great name, powerful over all names, Ioth he vau he, Ya, Saday, Annora, Adonay, Hymlehemoth, Baruchata, Adonay, you who lives and reigns, God, forever and ever, amen.

Prayer 6

Agla, who is strong and frightful, hear and listen to the sound of my prayer, O God of Gods and Lord of Lords, I believe in your name, great and blessed, and I am attentive to forming this thing, and through it may you be pleased to give me the virtue and vigor, and the light of the Holy Spirit, so that I may be able to bless it, sanctify it, and consecrate it by the virtue of your name, namely, that in which I stand (or which I have), that I may be able to obtain the thing in which my soul delights, through which I return to you, O God, who has the strength and power to unleash to my body that which I ask from you – the God who is above the gods, Eye-Asser-Eye, the Lord of Lords, who lives and reigns through all the infinite ages. Et penetret eos. Et dirige facta mea in hoc, vel in hoc nomen per magnum nomen tuum, joth he vau he, quod est nomen super omne nomina. Qui viuus & regnas per omnia secula seculorum. Amen.

Oracio 8

Quam magnum nomen domini & admirabile, et quam omnipotens super omnia nomina, benedictum ipsum sit super omnia nomina.⁵¹ Deus iusticie meę quid multiplicati sunt qui disturbant me, quam rebelles sunt illi qui insurgunt aduersum me. *Multi dicunt anime meę non est salus in deo eius. Tu eciam domine protector meus es*⁵² gloria mea, et exaltans caput meum, voce mea ad dominum clamaui, & exaudiuit me de monte sancto suo.⁵³ Ego videns bonitatem misericordie,⁵⁴ letatus sum in cantica laudis sue. Ergo videant robur mis spiritus maligni, quia dominus illuminauit me splendore sue claritatis. Audiant celi & intelligant sydera, fortitudinem verbi mei. Et prodant⁵⁵ & mutent fortunium in heufortunium. Angeli laudent hodie deum, et malignus videat robur quod ego habeo super ipsum, quia respexit deus humilitatem mei serui sui,⁵⁶ et in sua virtute me exaltauit. Qua propter vocabor ego benignus et fortis super corda humana. Deus deus tui misericordia vigora sensus meos, & voluntates meas, et fulgorem oculorum meorum, et per vim tuam optineam quod tibi peto, vel ad constringendum malignum & totum posse nomen per virtutem magni & terribilis nominis tui, on, ya, eyeassereye, kados, kados, kados, adonay, sabaoth, cui sit laus et gloria per infinita seculorum secula. Amen.

Prayer 7

The heavens manifest the works of the Lord, and his miracles are manifested for the sake of his glory. I praise you O God. I trust in you O Lord, to you all the angels devout praise, to you the cherubim and seraphim, all angels, the heavens, and all the powers therein revere you, saying, "Glory to God on high. We praise you, we honor you, we glorify you. Blessed be your name, who created us." O God, have mercy on me and hear my prayers. Listen to the sound of my prayer, through your great name, Eye-Asser-Eye, Adonay, Sabaoth, Ya, Saday. And may the sound of your name go forth and penetrate into the depths, and enter them. And direct my deeds in this, or in this name, through your great name, Joth He Vau He, which is a name over all names. Who lives and reigns through all eternity. Amen.

Prayer 8

How great and admirable is the name of the Lord, and how mighty over all names; may it be blessed over all names. O God of my justice, why have those who disturb me been multiplied? those who are rebellious and rise up against me? Many say to my soul, 'there is no salvation in his God.' But you, O Lord, are my protector, my glory, and the one lifting up my head. I have cried out to the Lord with my voice, and he heard me from his holy mountain. When I saw the goodness of his mercy, I rejoiced with canticles of his praise. Therefore may the wicked spirits see my strength, because the Lord has illuminated me with the splendor of his brightness. May the heavens hear and the stars understand the strength of my word. And may they create and transform fortune into good fortune. May the angels praise God today, and the evil one see the power which I have over him, because God has considered the humbleness of me, his servant, and in his virtue he has exalted me. For this reason I shall be called kind and strong over human hearts. O God, O God, with your mercy animate my senses, and my wishes, and the light of my eyes, and through your strength may I obtain that which I ask of you, (or, 'that I may be able to bind the wicked one'), and all this I ask through the virtue of your great and terrible name, On, Ya, Eye-Asser-Eye, Kados, Kados, Kados, Adonay, Sabaoth, to whom may be

Prayer 9

Help me O God, and set your virtue in my help. Illuminate my mind, and distinguish my memory. In your virtue save me with your mercy and hear the supplication which is made to you, the prayer on its behalf. Bless and sanctify my tongue, and animate my body and spirit, that its voice enter into the abyss, and exit hell, so that hell trembles at the out-crying of my praise; and may all the good angels rejoice⁵⁸ together because of it. And you, O eternal God, accept my praise as you would from those angels, and grant me the ability to fulfill the desire of my thoughts, in your name, great and highest over all names, to whom be praise both now and throughout all the ages.

Prayer 10

Out of the depths of my heart and my mind, I have cried out to the Lord, and from his heights he has heard the clamor of my voice, whereby I know that I will do his will, from whom I pray that he may uncover his ears, and know the voice of my prayer, and not be angry with me in his wrath, for we read that he is the King of Mercy. O God O God, my Lord, ioth He Vau He, look at me, a sinner, open your eyes and behold me. Uncover my ears and stretch out your hand to me. Reach out your hand and bless me, grant your word and bless me. Send your spirit and enlighten me. May the water blessed by you wash me. And may your grace saturate my mind. O God of the salvation of the living, O God, the hope of the salvation of the dead. O God, the hope of confirmation of the World. O God, the hope of constancy of the angels. O king, glorious, eternal, inestimable holiness, bless and sanctify me, and strengthen the light and brightness of your glory eternally in me. And put and send in virtue in promotion of your name, ioth He Vau He, with which I may fulfill the desires of my heart, according to the desires of my spirit, not all of which may be spoken to you, because you are the one who knows the inner hearts of men, you who are the eternal God. For this reason I cry out to you like one who is unjust, unworthy, that through you I may be able to accomplish, and having accomplished to maintain my heart's desire, in such a manner that I may be able to serve you justly and honorably, and to save myself and others who were my predecessors, through you O God, Heloyon, who you are strong, mighty above all powers, whose name be praised from now and until eternity.

Prayer 11

I trust in you, O Lord, God of my justice, and I shall not perish, but rather I am saved by your power. And through your great name, Adonay, I shall be strengthened for binding fast the bitter ones,⁶⁴ because I believe only you are the One God, Alpha and Omega, without beginning and without end, Eye-Asser-Eye, God of Gods and Lord of Lords, who created the firmament, the water, the land, the heavens, and the ether, and everything therein; O Lord, who gave the Law to your servant Moses; O Lord who illuminated David and all other prophets with divine brightness, illuminate my body and my mind, and save me, and bless me. And may my devotion enter before your presence. May the glorious angels receive my praise. Today, too, may all nine choirs of them plead on my behalf, and send them to me to defend and protect my soul; may they save and strengthen it against all terrors, and direct my deeds into the path of salvation. And through your goodness may it be my principle, because I can do nothing without you, and therefore I beg your mercy, that through your greatest mercy I may be helped in this, through you who are God, Lemazabany, Adonay, Saday, Sabaoth, to whom be praise now and always throughout the endless ages. Amyn, amyn, amyn.

Prayer 12

In the wonderful name of God, Adonay, of God Joth He Vau He, may we be sealed⁶⁷ and blessed whereby he would direct our deeds in the production for that for which we strive, in the name of God Adonay, on behalf of our salvation, my God, God of the living, the judge of judges, the hope of salvation, the consoling of the abandoned, the completion of the incomplete. Stretch out your right hand, that it may direct me in the production of this thing, in your great name Adonay, Hel, Helemas, Agathos, Agla, Yeue, and direct and strengthen it, and send your holy angels into it, who may hold its corners,⁶⁸ from your holy power. And save me today and at all times, both my body and spirit members, because my trust and faith are in you. And I do not believe in any others, for you are the one God, all-powerful over all gods, to whom be praise on Earth as it is in Heaven, both now and throughout the ages. Amen.

Laudate socij laudate nomen dei adonay, cui sit laus perenniter, ab ortu solis usque ad occasum sit suum nomen benedictum, qui est deus excelsus existens super omnes gentes, & super celos gloria eius, ei nil compari post. Nec est qui potestati sue possit resistere. Confessio & magnum opus sibi pertinet, & iusticia eius manet per omne seculum, hely, ya, deus in quo mis spem pono. Recordare huius peccatoris & miserere eius. Noli tradere iniustis animam eius, et nec cum impiis vitam suam. Recordare que ymago tua fit: quamuis sit vermis terre, tua sancta potencia dirigat eam. Veniant tui principes celestes in adiutorium meum, Michael, gabriel, vriel, thobiel, raphael, razyel. Veniant chori, cheraphin & cherubim. Veniant potestates & principatus, et audiant benedictionem, et confirment eam, in hoc loco protractam in tuo nomine terribili, agla, on, eloy, quibus sint obedientes celestes, aerei, terrestres spiritus, & principes & reges coniurati in tuo magno nomine, On, cui sit laus in terris sicut in celum, nunc & semper & in secula seculorum. Amen.

Oracio 15.⁷¹

Benedicat nos deus pater qui cuncta ex nichilo creauit. Benedicat nos filius qui gentes redemit suo proprio sanguine. Benedicat nos spiritus

Prayer 13

O God of gods, Eye-Asser-Eye, Lord of lords, King of kings, just Judge, the hope of salvation, the straight path, Aglay, with light, without sadness, Heloön, a light ruling over all darkness, a heavenly fire, the life of sinners, the redemption of unbelievers, the salvation of souls, and fear to enemies. Hear my prayer, and send a vision of peace to me in a pleasant form, by which I shall bind fast the unjust and wicked to do my will. And may my thoughts be directed by you, so that I only seek things which please you, and those which I might never imagine. Now the prayer includes hearing with mercy, as you know to be necessary to me. And send the heavenly guardian into this place through your Holy Spirit who may watch over and protect me from evil terrors, through you O eternal God, you who are the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end of this work, to whom be praise now and unto eternity. Amen.

Prayer 14

Praise O servants, praise the name of God Adonay, to whom be perpetual praise. May his name be blessed from the rising until the setting of the Sun, who is the highest God over all peoples, and his glory is above the heavens, and none can compare with it in the future. Nor is there any that can withstand his power. Confession and the great work concerns him, and his justice endures through all the ages, Hely, Ya, God in whom I place hope. Look at this sinner and pity him. Don't let his soul be handed over to the unjust, nor his life to the wicked. Look at one who is in your own image. Although he may be a worm in the dirt, may your holy power direct him. May your heavenly princes come to my aid: Michael, Gabriel, Uriel, Thobiel, Raphael, Raziel. May the choirs of Seraphim and Cherubim come. May the Powers and Principalities come and hear the blessing, and may they strengthen them, drawn in this place in your terrible name, Agla, On, Eloy, to which the celestial, aerial, and terrestrial spirits are obedient, and the princes and kings are conjured in your great name, On, to whom be praise on Earth as it is in Heaven, now and always, throughout the ages. Amen.

Prayer 15

May God the Father bless us, who created all things from nothing. May the Son bless us, who redeemed all people with his own blood.

71 MS L.4.f.43 abbreviates here: "¶ Oracio 15, que incipit, Benedicat nos deus pater qui cuncta & cetera, iam est in principio libri posita." This can be found in full on fol. L.1.f.2 of the Kassel ms., there used to "bless the place" (benedictio loci) for the magic circle. H includes in full here. The "Northern" (or "London") version of the Sworn Book also used prayer 15 for the same purpose, but there of course it is taken from Ars Notoria.

sanctus cuius sancta sua consolacio nos saluet. Cantemus deo deorum adonay canticum laudis. Cantemus ei canticum nouum,⁷² & laudemus suum nomen. Domine deus qui stabilisti celum & terram, aquas, & arenas, aera, et omnia in eis habitancia extende⁷³ tuam dexteram in opere peccatoris huius serui tui, et benedic ipsum. Sacra et sanctifica ipsum. Mundifica et purifica ipsum, ut tuum sacrem nomen munde sit ibi prolatum /f.1.f.3/ Et mitte in ipsum tuos angelos Michaelem, gabrielem, vrielem, thobielem, raphaelem, razelem, qui sint protectio & tuicio mei, et meorum sociorum. Benedicat te deus pater et tota sua potestas. Benedicat te deus filius et totus suos vigor, Benedicat te spiritus sanctus, & totus suus splendor. Benedicat te deus qui creauit firmamentum et omnia in eo habitancia: per quem hodie robur capias vim et potenciam tuendi habitantes in te. Et sis stimulus et fortitudo in posse summi nominis, thetragramaton, yoth, he, vau, he, cui sint obedientes venti & angeli qui regunt spiritus infernales, terreos, et aereos, per illum qui est deus Alpha ω, principium sine fine: cuius est nomen mirabile hely, hel, sabaoth, cui sit laus in terra sicut in celo. Ex hoc nunc & usque in seculum, Qui viuuit & regnat & cetera.⁷⁴

Benedictum sit nomen dei adonay, et gracie sibi super omnes tronos, et laus sibi in suis altissimis. Deus qui de petra sicca nimias aquas exire fecisti, et manna in deserto tuis seruis misisti. Deus qui apostolis dedisti licenciam predicandi. Deus qui prophetis dedisti lumen intellectus. Deus qui virginibus dedisti viam castitatis. Deus qui martyribus dedisti victoriam magnam. Vigora cor meum, illumina oculos meos, & acue linguam meam, & dirige facta mea, qui tres pueros de camino ignis eripuisti, sydrac, mysach, & abdenago, delibera me hodie de terroribus malignis. Et intret tuum nomen in hac horam & perforet inferna, & extingat flammam, & excitet terram & infortunata heufortunet.⁷⁵ Et totus ether obediat voci nominis tui, On, agla, saday, qui es deus, eyeassereye, deus eternus, qui sis benedictus perenniter sine fine. Amyn, amyn, amyn.

May the Holy Spirit bless us, whose holy comforting saves us. Let us sing songs of praise to the God of gods, Adonay. Let us sing to him a new song, and let us praise his name. O Lord God who established Heaven and Earth, the waters and deserts, the air, and all that dwells in them, stretch out your right hand into the work of this sinner, your servant, and bless it. Consecrate and sanctify it. Cleanse and purify it, that your holy name may be brought out here cleanly, and send into it your angels Michael, Gabriel, Uriel, Thobiel, Raphael, and Raziel, who will be my protection and defense, and that of my associates. May God the Father and all his power bless you. May God the Son and all his energy bless you. May God the Holy Spirit and all his splendor bless you. May God, who created the firmament, and all that dwell in it, bless you, through whom today may you acquire the power, strength, and might to protect those dwelling in you. And may you be a stimulus and power in the potential of the highest name Tetragrammaton – Yoth He Vau He, who the winds obey, and the angels who rule over the infernal, earthly, and aerial spirits, through him who is God, Alpha and Omega, the Beginning without End. May his wonderful name Hely, Hel, Sabaoth, be praised on Earth as it is in Heaven, from now throughout the ages, who lives and reigns forever. Amen.

Prayer 16

Blessed be the name of God Adonay, and his grace over all thrones, and his praise in his heights. O God who made abundant water flow from a dry rock, and sent manna to your servants in the desert; O God who gave outspokenness to the apostles for preaching. O God who gave the prophets the light of intellect. O God who gave to the virgins the path of chastity. O God who gave great victory to the martyrs. Energize my heart, illuminate my eyes, sharpen my tongue, and direct my deeds, O you who delivered the three children from the blazing furnace, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, deliver me today from wicked terrors. And may your name enter into it at this time, and may it pierce through to hell, and extinguish the flames, and may it depart from the earth and make the unfortunate very happy. And may all the ether obey the sounding of your name, On, Agla, Saday, you who are God, Eye-Asser-Eye, the eternal God, blessed forever without end. Amyn. Amyn. Amyn.

Prayer 17

Now God has heard my voice and cry, because I serve and believe in no other, wherefore he has sent his power to me. May the heavens hear, and the abyss take heed, and may the souls that remain punished there rejoice, because the voice of God Adonay breaks their chains. O God who formed me, God who created me, God who illuminated me from your Spirit, don't allow my soul, which you engendered, to perish. Receive the sacrifice which I present to you O God: the sound of my prayer together with this suffumigation, directed to your heights, O true God Eloy. Be attentive to this sinner, who serves you, because I do not believe in any other, but put my faith in you. Open your mouth and may the sound of your voice bless me. Truly your house is over the mountains, O God Heloy, set up and greatly fortified with precious stones, namely with heavenly names, and it has been blessed with your power, Ay, God of my justice, have mercy on me by your power, and make secure my lodging above in your kingdom, where you exist without end, with songs of great praise, may you be blessed on Earth as in Heaven. There it is titled "C.2. et est oracio universalem itineris" i.e. it is the prayer to be said while journeying to the place where the magic circle is to be created. minister of the things which you have made, director of the Whole, manage my senses, ability, energy, memory, and power to bind the devil, and all his power, Messias, Asser-Eye, by which you will direct me. My hope is in you, Heloy, send to me the guardian of your brightness; may the Celestial Council obey your name. And make me worthy to name those with purity. May the good and evil ones pierce it there together, and may the foul air be purified by it, and hell and those who dwell there shall tremble at his voice, and it shall arouse the whole world. And let the evil spirits not dare to delay obeying them.

Now God has heard the cry of my voice, and am joyful in praising him by his name. Blessed be all the works which he has made. May he be praised and blessed, and exalted above others forever. Blessed be the angels of the lord; blessed be the heavens of the Lord; blessed be the Sun and Moon of the Lord. Blessed be the brilliance of the stars and all the heavens. Blessed be the sea and all the waters of the Lord. Blessed be the winds and all the spirits of the Lord. Blessed be the land of the Lord. Blessed be the wild beasts of the Lord which inhabit the land, and all they engender. Blessed be the stones of the Lord. Blessed be the fire and the air of the Lord. Blessed be the people of the Lord. Blessed be the wild beasts and all fowls of the Lord. Blessed be the name of the Lord. Blessed be the things and all wonders of the Lord. Praise be the name of the Lord, now and always, above Ouranos (the sky). Praised be the angels of the Lord. Praise all things of the Lord. Listen O heavens, and hear the angels of the Lord. May they hear the strength which is within me. May they glorify and be obedient to his name in praise. Praise the Lord with my soul and spirit, and my spirit rejoices in the salvation of our God, because he considered the humility of his servants. And because of this I shall be blessed, because I have asked him, he who is powerful has accomplished great things for me, and his holy name. And he sent his mercy over me, because I have feared him. Praise be to him and to his name on Earth as it is in Heaven, where it is sung, "glory to God in the highest." Now God has considered the humility of his servants, and I have rejoiced because he has not forgotten me. Hear, O spirits, and may all Hell hear. May Hell hear, with the kings which are in it. May the North wind hear, and may the planets hear. May the Signs hear, and the Firmament hear, and at the

It was evidently adapted from Dan 3:57 ff (34 ff in KJV numbering) – the "Song of Three Children" (Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego) mentioned in prayer 16. The reference to saturnine spirits echos the next chapter in SSM (C.6. Coniuracio universalis Saturni).

O God of my justice, God of my hope, the light, the way, and the truth, the splendor, the sun, the star, the day, strengthen and purify me; receive my praise, and likewise these suffumigations in your sight, and bless this place, confirming it with the virtue described. Amyn.

Prayer 23

Hel, Joth he vau he, Ya, Yava, Heliom, Hel Heloon, Heleymas God of one, Heloe, Ya, Saday, Baruchata, Heloh, God of my justice, who rules the whole world. From your throne you perceive the abysses. With your hand you bless the things which you created in the Beginning. You are the Law of the prophets. You are the strength of the martyrs, and the faith of the confessors, the hope and teachings of the apostles, and the guidance of the virgins. Hear and listen to the voice of this sinner, and don't scorn his prayer. Come quickly and send your power. Send your good angels Michael, Gabriel, Raphael, Raguel, the cherubim and seraphim, and all their choirs, for my gaining control and authority. And may they guard all my senses from the terrors of hostile devils. O God, make me serve you according to my desire, and your praise. And send the benevolent princes which you created to me, who can teach me to serve you devoutly, through your great name which is above all other names, Joth He Vau He, to whom be boundless praise eternally. Prayer 24

O God calculating and judging the law above all justice, infinite in number; O God who created the multitude of stars, and called them all by name, there is none other than you. You made the Firmament firm, and beneath it you sent the sinners, and gave them dominion over the earth. Look down upon me, O true God Adonay, and hear my voice, and look upon my outcry. Don't turn your face from me, but look towards me with your mercy, in whichever hour I call upon you O God. Erase my error, and hear me, and transfer your power into this place, and in complete judgment, through your beneficent angels who watch over me, and may I be able to confine the cruel enemy, and all his power, with your preceding power. Prayer 25

Jesus, Heloy, immortal death Athanatos, give me strength of life, and power for constraining, through your Holy Spirit. May your Holy Spirit be pleased to descend upon me, although I may be unworthy, as it descended upon the faithful holy disciples on the day of Pentecost. And direct my acts and understanding with your name On, so I may be able to destroy the enemy and constrict all his power. Amyn.

Prayer 26

O God my God, how admirable is your name throughout all the land! For your magnificence is elevated above the heavens. Out of the mouths of babes and infants, you have perfected praise against your enemies, and for this reason the cruel enemy will be overcome. And I will behold the heavens revealed, and the works of your fingers: the Moon and the stars, which you have created. Who is the person who is disobedient to your name? And who is he who can say there is no virtue in cursing him, and blessing a believer, because you have given me strength. And with that name I have constrained all devils, making the polluted airs pure. The winds and planets obey your name. Who is the individual, that you are mindful of him? He is blessed, because you, O Adonay visit him. You have reduced the arrogance of the enemy, and in your virtue you have increased my power, you have crowned me with angels of great fortune, and armed me with the arms of purity. You have greatly fortified all corners of this house with great strength, which defends me from all the terrors of the enemies, and they give me vigor, and I stand here firm, safe, and certain of through the virtue which I perceive in me from your name, may it be praised on Earth and in Heaven, by people as much as by the angels. You who lives and reigns [throughout the ages forever. Amen.]

Prayer 27

If the Lord had not guarded us, we all might have perished, for while the wicked were rising up against us, had we not been fortified by your power, they might have devoured us alive. Therefore O my soul and my spirit, praise the Lord your God, because he has snatched you away from the hands of

Prayer 45

Oanastasys, incorruptibly exalted, Stratymeton, incomparable God, holy of holies over all that is sacred. Hear my voice, and listen to my prayer, and save me through your vast power. O you Agla, strong and terrible, may your angels come into my sight, and save me from the hands of the wicked, in order that they may not snatch my soul from me, a sinner, but strengthen me in your great power, and may the status of your holy name rule and direct my deeds and my journey. And may your angels obey my outcry through your mercy. And may they fear your name. And without any terror to me, may they obey in your name, Eye-Asser-eye. Come to me O good and kind angels; obey the Lord who made you. And all things have been prepared to obey my will for the sake of his name, and all gather together willingly and peacefully, as suited to a person of flesh. And do not destroy my fragile senses, but kindly come to us in a pleasing shape such as belongs to you, through the immeasurable name of God, Hel, Ya, Eye-Asser-Eye, who be praised continually with songs of praise, singing, Cados cados cados Adonay Sabaoth, “Heaven and Earth are full of the glory of your greatness. Glory to God on high, and peace to men of goodwill.” To you who lives and reigns, God, forever and ever, amen.

Prayer 46

O God of my fortune, O God of my severity, O God of my hope. O God, you are my comfort. Hear and attend to my prayer, and save me in this hour. Don't allow my good senses to become confused, but as you have established for it in your goodness. Thus may it obey your name willingly, Joth He Vau He, which is above all names, which be blessed forever and beyond. Amen.

Prayer 47

Prayer 51, the last

O God Adonay, who is infinite beyond understanding, true passion, true life, true salvation, true deity, true Trinity, true pillar of the world. Holy of holies over all that is sacred, thanks be to you, and praise for the great wonders which you have undertaken for me. Thanks be to you for the highest power which you have granted to me today. Thanks be to you for the great vigor which you have placed in me. Thanks be to you for the great transformation which you have formed in me today, and for the great assistance in which I have rejoiced. Thanks be to you, and praise to your name, because it is worthy over all names. May it be blessed forever and beyond. Amen.

And so you have the *Nourishing*¹⁷² prayers of the New Art, or the Book of the Prayers of the Three Souls,

- Of which, the first is for dignification and purification from all sins. And for obtaining grace with the Lord God, for which you must confess cleanly and properly, and mentioning the nature of your sins, first in disregarding the great name of God, then a description of the thing to be cleansed from defilement, and if you write those names with polluted hands, through the first, and the third, and the second, then you must cleanse yourself. After which you must not name unless necessary for you. And through this first you are able to obtain grace.

It is generally used to mark paragraph divisions in medieval manuscripts, but here its use seems unclear – perhaps just a late insertion pilcrow.

- And the next two are for obtaining absolution of sins from the Lord.
- And the next, 4-8, are to obtain blessings, on behalf of yourself or others, and pardon and remission of sins by fulfilling your penance, and offering them freely to God.
- 9-11, in all things which you wish to suitably provide for the sake of guarding your body and soul.
- 12-14, in all magical operations.
- 15-16, in the blessing of those.
- 17-19, for keeping your body protected.
- 20-23, for making the good angels descend into your keeping.
- 22-26, for offering good odors to the Lord, that he may accept them gratefully, or for other things which you would like to offer him in a suitable prayer service.
- 27-31, against terrors and temptations of evil spirits. And they are similarly good with some of the preceding.
- 32-35, for gathering them, and all their powers.
- 36-40, for returning praise and gratitude, and for obtaining grace and strength against terrors, so that the enemies will be unable to harm the exits of the circles.
- 41-45, for the same, and for making the good angels come and speak with you.
- 46-48, for obtaining grace, so that they will willingly obey without any harm to you.
- 49-51, to return thanks and praise to the Lord, from whom these have been given.
- You should consider many other ways you can praise God, just as our forefather David the Psalmist teaches.

From whence these are the spiritual offices of these prayers, although the general offices of all may be dignified for an art, and to consecrate any combined arts, or not combined with those old arts. For if one operates by the Solomonic method, it is appropriate to combine. If with the method of Honorius, not at all. Because the old way now needs the new. But the new way doesn't need the ancient. Just as the law of Moses needs that of Christ. But the law of Christ needs no other, since its perfection is from him. And the philosopher says (truly) it is perfect because no one made it.

Et bone bona. ¶ Et de istis sectis prima fuit hetnica, qua colebat planetas, et eos deos vocabat, ut deum saturnum, /L4.f.50/ & deum Martem, & deum Iouem, colebant romani dum gentiles erant. ¶ Secunda fuit hebrea. Et isti unum verum deum credunt, set non Understand moreover that the general rule of magic is, that as the sects, so are the magi. And each sect has its magic. So if the sect is Christian, the magus is Christian; if Saracen, a Saracen magus. ¶ And if the sect is Hebrew, a magus is Hebrew. ¶ And if the sect is Pagan,¹⁹³ a Pagan magus. ¶ And it is not possible to have more than one sect authentically, so one cannot be more than one kind of magus. ¶ The Christian magus uses Latin letters principally, with the others subsequently. The Saracen magus uses Arabic letters firstly, others secondarily. The Jewish magus uses Hebrew letters earlier, others next. ¶ The Pagan or Gentile magus uses Greek letters originally, and others next. ¶ And all magic has these two distinguished foundations: the letters of the sects, and the faith of the sects. ¶ In the letters and the sect, first in the alphabet from the sect, and in the same faith is founded all magic, firstly and principally. ¶ And the faith of the sect is the faith in God, because no sect has denied God, and each sect acknowledges him. And for this reason, each sect has names which it uses to call upon God, and with those names it is able to constrain the enemies of God. Therefore the holy Honorius in The Sworn Book has said, that faith works for each person, whether for good or evil.¹⁹⁴ Because the faith of an evil sect is called evil, and of the good, good.

¶ And of those sects, the first is the Pagan, which extols the planets, and they call those gods, such as the god Saturn, and the god Mars, and the god Jupiter. The Romans were likewise pagans.

¶ The second is Hebrew, and they believe in the one true God, but not the Trinity.
